Book sale tells students summer officially over

The 1981-82 school year began August 20 when Maryvale seniors came out of summer hibernation to buy their books for the new school year.

For some students, book sales was a time for mourning because it meant that the end of summer was near. But for others, it was a happy time because they were reunited with old friends whom they hadn't seen in three months. However, there was one consolation for the average book-buyer: they didn't have to work there.

IN BUILDING

Bored Students Find Escape in lunchtime games

Lunchtime at Maryvale could be a pretty boring time for some. But a group of students called Student Government fought to change that.

With such inspiring activities as 'Amoeba', "Don't Break the Banana" and "Sit Down Volleyball", Student Government tried to liven up the lunch hours of those students whose life had grown stagnant.

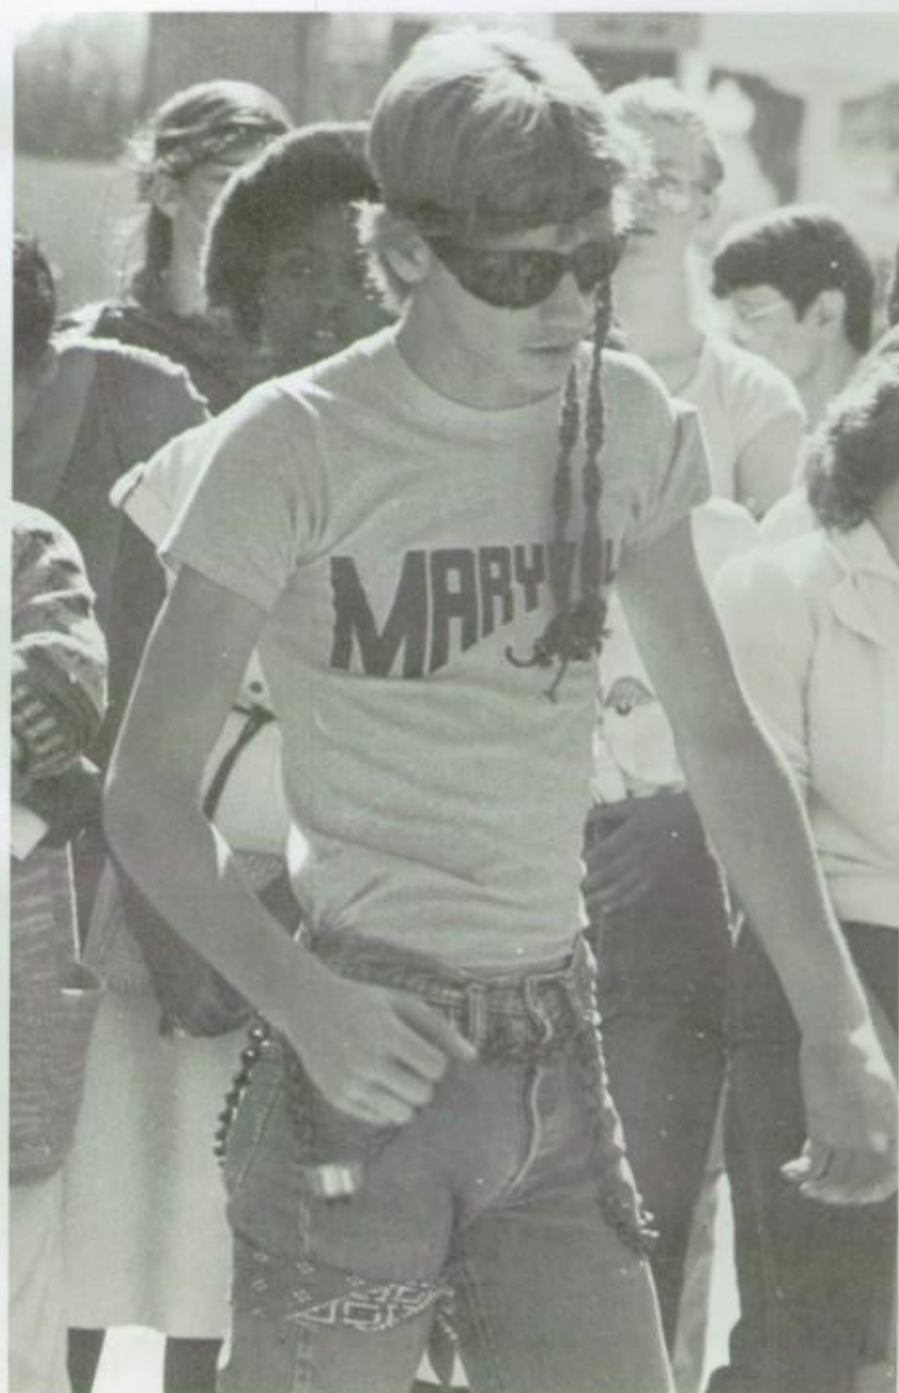

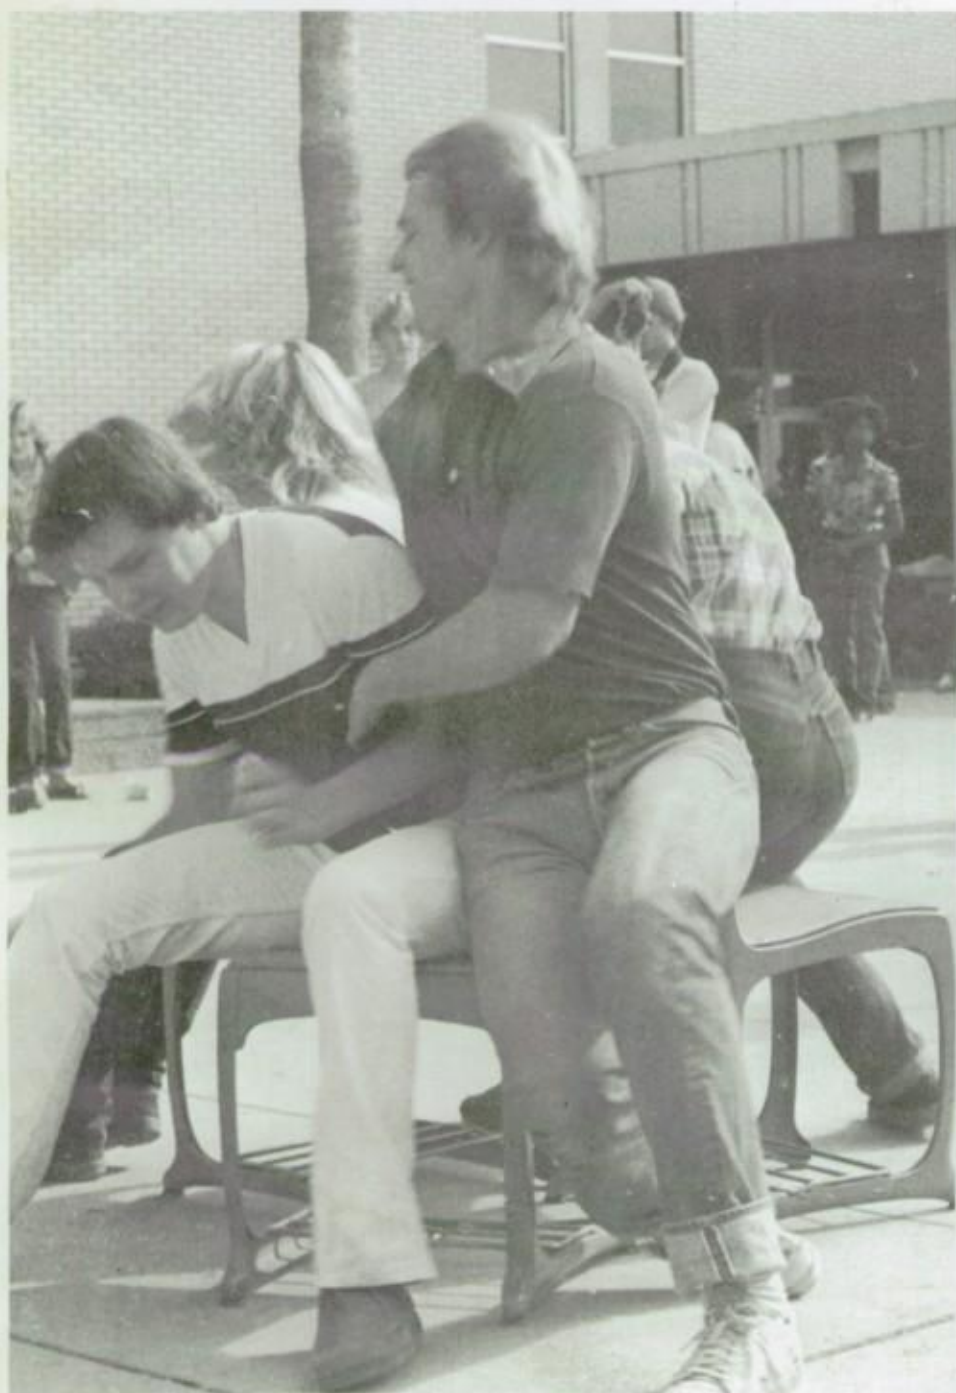

Lunchtime activities were a real help to bored students bound for a few more hours of pushing a pencil.

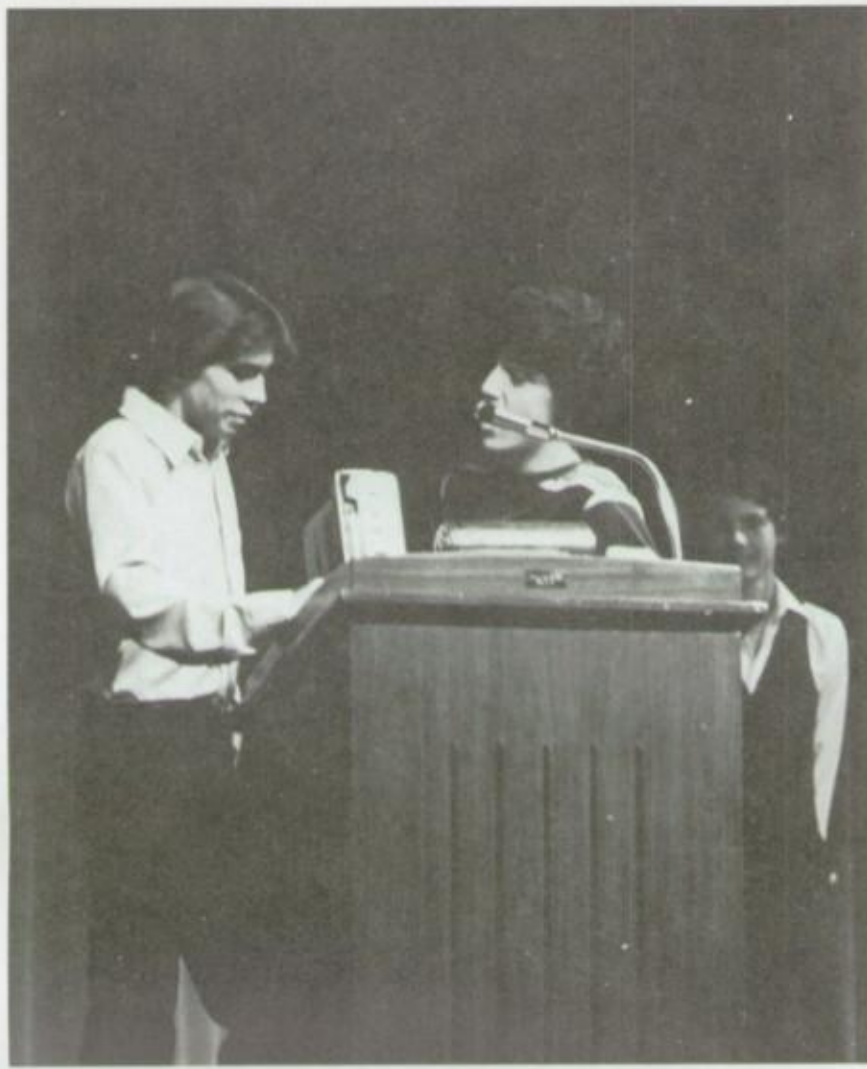

Lunch activities and assemblies provide spirit

Student Government provided a year of fun for Maryvale students. They did many skits that involved students at pep assemblies. They even got the Phoenix Suns Gorilla in the spirit of the events. Lunchtime activities made the normally dull lunch hour fun for those who watched and participated.

Watching assemblies entertains students.

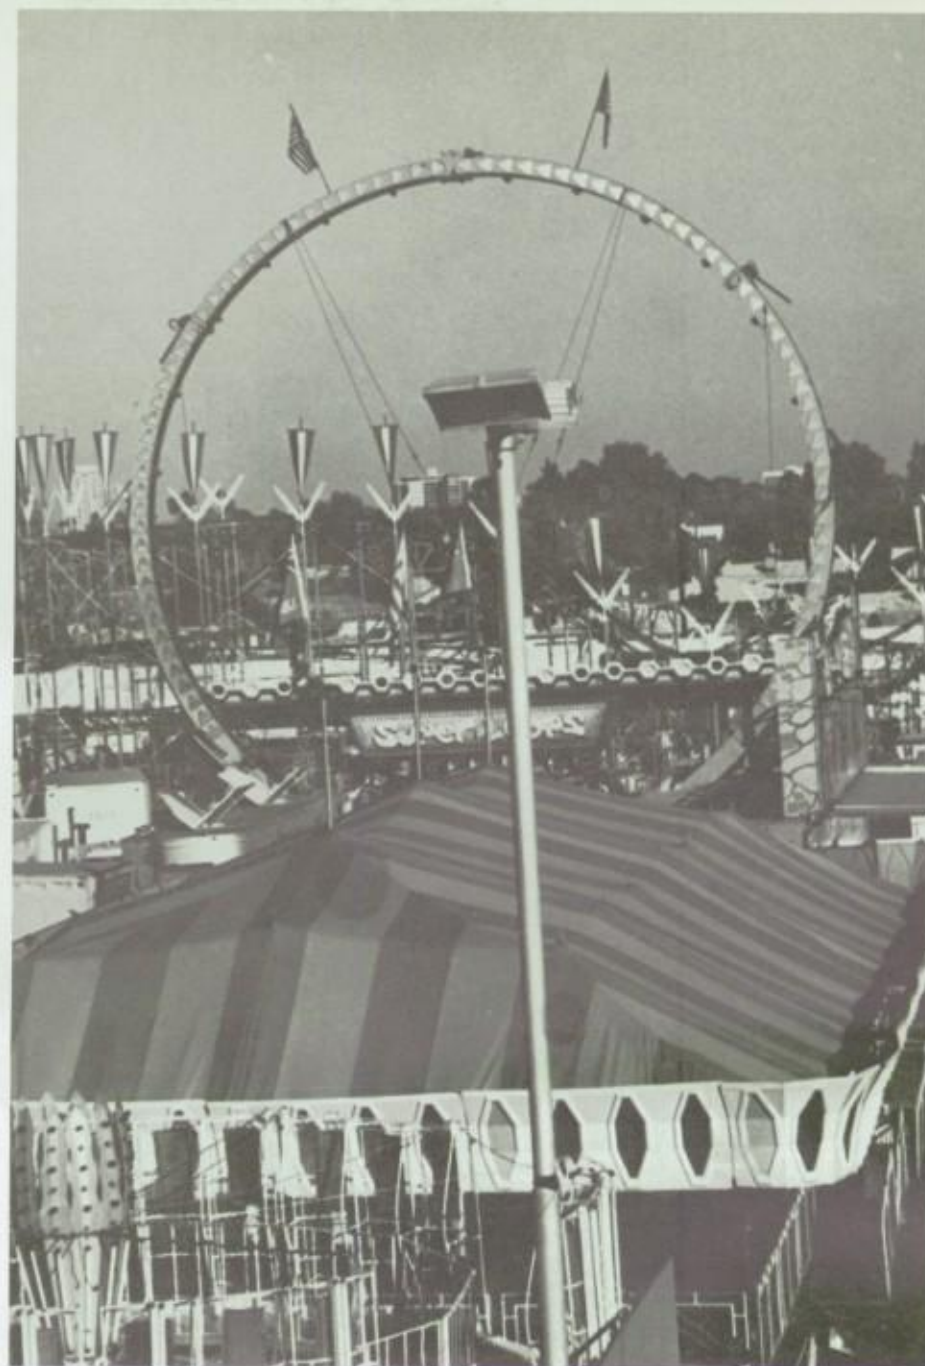

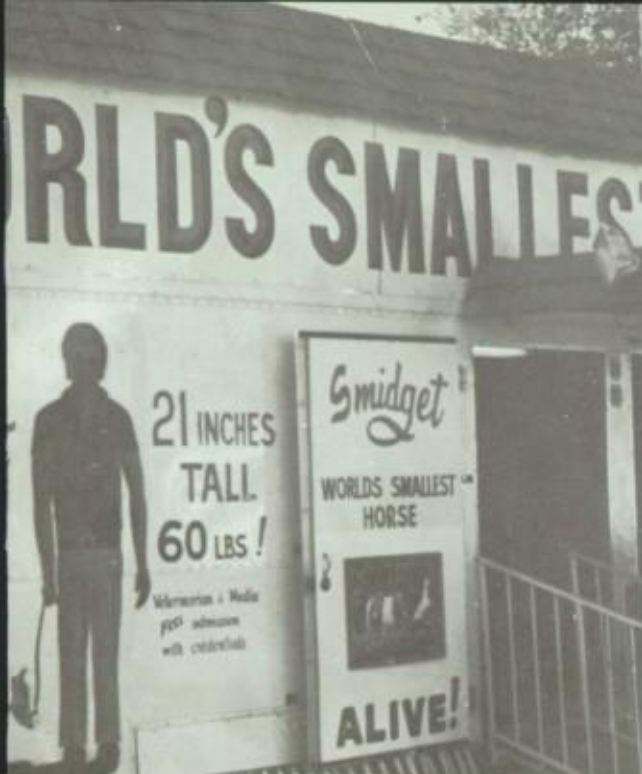

Every time spirit got low on the Maryvale campus, it was stirred up by pep assemblies. The assemblies also served to break the routine of school by entertaining the students.

Whether they were in preparation for the Trevor Browne game or to honor members of fall sports teams, the assemblies were always well planned by student government and well carried out by the cheers and poms.

Students visit State Fair rides for October rest

The State Fair of Arizona furnished many students of Maryvale an excuse for not attending school and an exciting excursion.

With its midway, rides and exhibits the fair provided the diversion needed to take ones' mind off school when it was badly needed, namely the middle of October.

Although many attended the exhibits and many entered some of the different competition, most students were satisfied to stick with the midway with its rides and side shows.

Psychos invade Maryvale during Homecoming week

Homecoming went a step beyond its usual nonsense this year. Besides the traditional parade and queen crowning and football game, the week involved noon-time activities to the extent of surfer days, punk days, and a special spirit day.

Besides the noontime activities, class competition in a thing called "Almost anything goes" involved pushing a Volkswagen and human wheel barrow races. As it turned out almost anything went.

Dancers perform in Modern, jazz abstract modes

The 81-82 Dance classes consisted of Beginning, Intermediate, Advanced, and Performance. Dancers performed different moves and techniques taught by Ms. Blanche Berry and Ms. Lorna Moore. Ms. Berry handled the performance troupe while Ms. Moore instructed her speciality of Jazz along with Modern and Abstract. Dancers improved their dances under their teachers' trained eyes.

The reigning Panther Sweetheart and Beau of Maryvale campus is Katie Donavich and Kevin Phillips this year. Katie's in Performance Dance and played on the freshman tennis team. Kevin is a line backer and guard. The former cheerleader of 3 years and the 4 year football player made their appearance at the St. Valentine's dance.

Towards the Christmas season, our Christmas formal King and Queen was Eugene Jacobs and Terri May. Eugene is running back on our football team. Terri is a Model U.N. member and is ranked number 1 in the senior class. The crowning of the royalty added to the excitement and atmosphere of the Christmas formal.

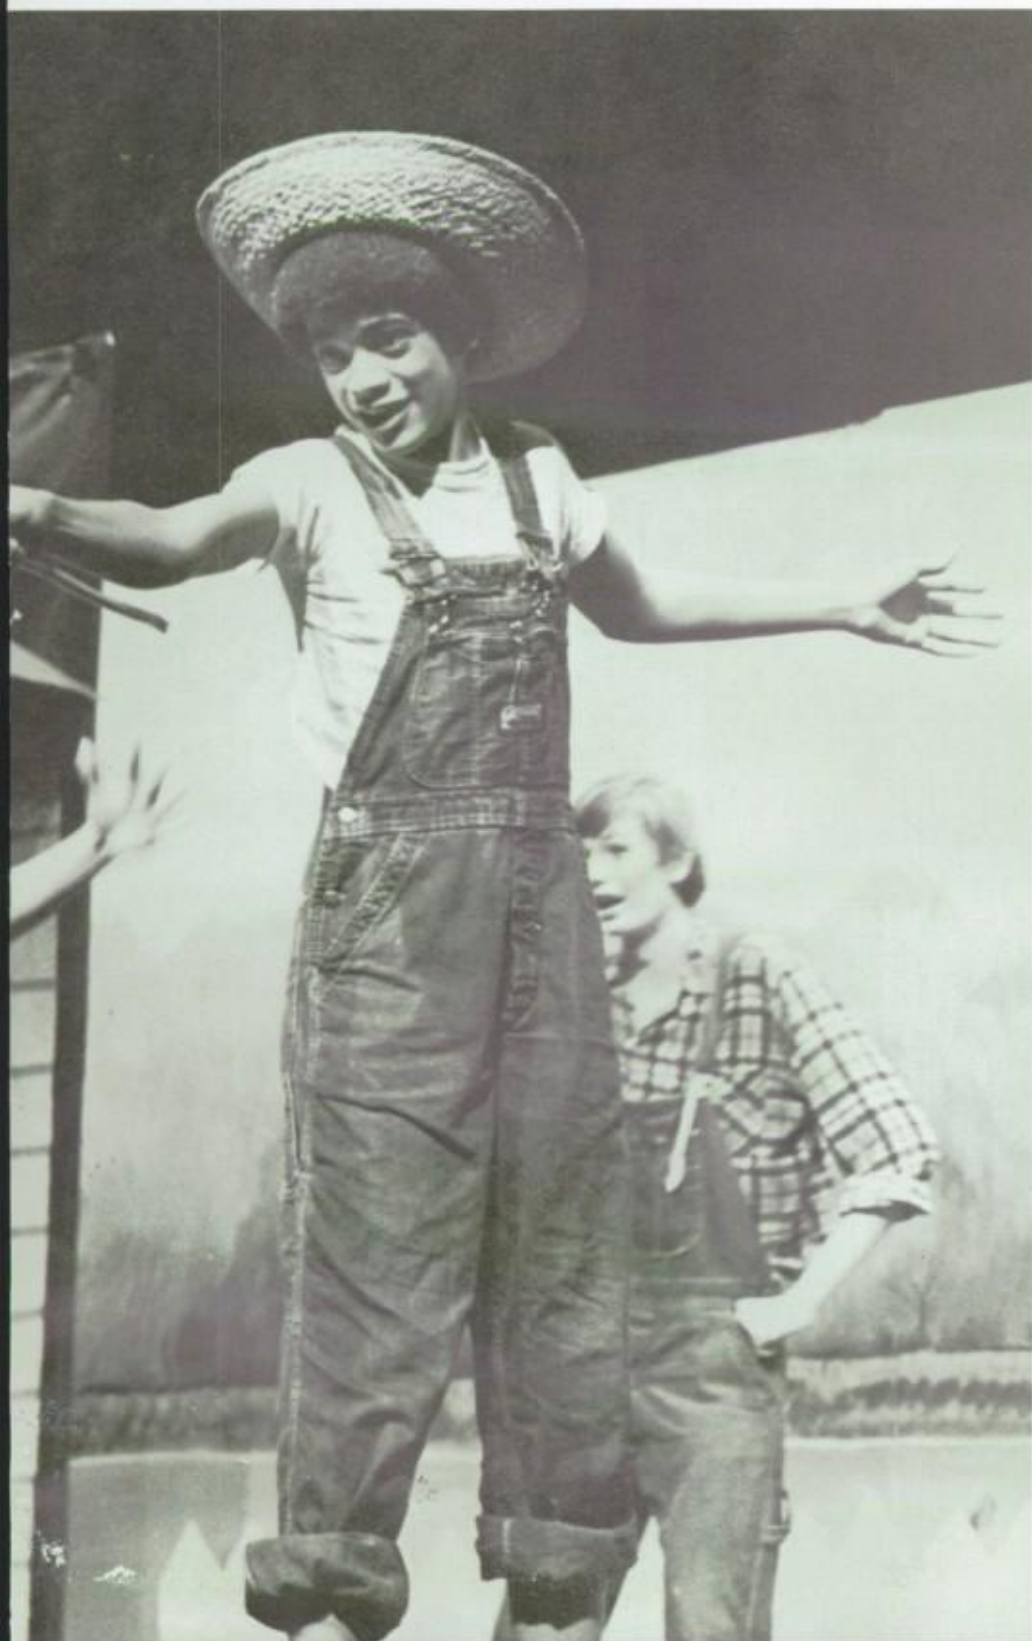

Young dramatics act, sing, dance in Twain story

A sampling of Shakespeare and Mark Twain was the grist for the mills of thespians as their first two productions, Shakespeare's Opposite Sex and Tom Sawyer, opened this year.

Shakespeare's Opposite Sex, a festival of three Shakespearean plays, was probably the most difficult of the productions. While the musical, Tom Sawyer, was on a lighter note, it was still a tough production.

The last play was Once Upon A Mattress, based on the fairy-tale, the Princess and the Pea.

Band entertains hopeful crowd during halftime.

The Maryvale Band underwent some changes this year all were for the better.

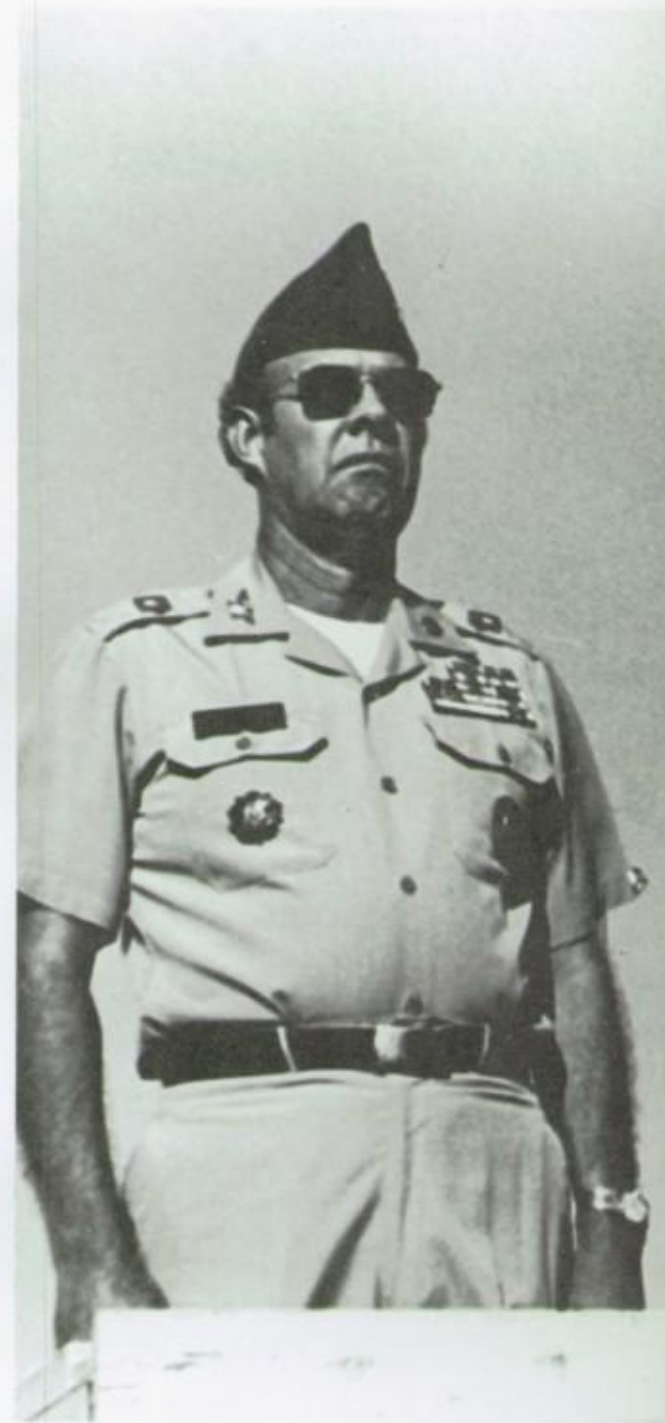

With help from their new director, Miss Jan Pemberton, the band got a new look, as did the flags and poms.

In their new uniforms, the panthers participated in such events as the ASU Band Day where they received an excellent rating. They also played at the Marcos De Niza Invitational band competition.

Their main activity, however, was the same as always: half-time shows at the home football games.

The Maryvale Army JROTC unit was presented October 7, with the award "Honor Unit With Distinction", which they won in the annual federal inspection last spring.

The unit was also presented with the traveling trophy which marked the second time the "Can Do" 6th Battalion.

The presentation of the certificate and special ribbon for the colors from the Fourth ROTC Region Fort Lewis, Washington, was made by Dr. Patrick Henderson, superintendent, Phoenix Union District.

Weary students entertained by talented people

Going to the same classes everyday could get pretty monotonous as most Maryvale students found out. To combat this problem, several groups on campus held assemblies throughout the year to entertain bored students.

Such organizations as band, chorus, dance, and drama provided the main events for the assemblies, as did student government for a few.

Tom Hutchinson dynamically leads student officers

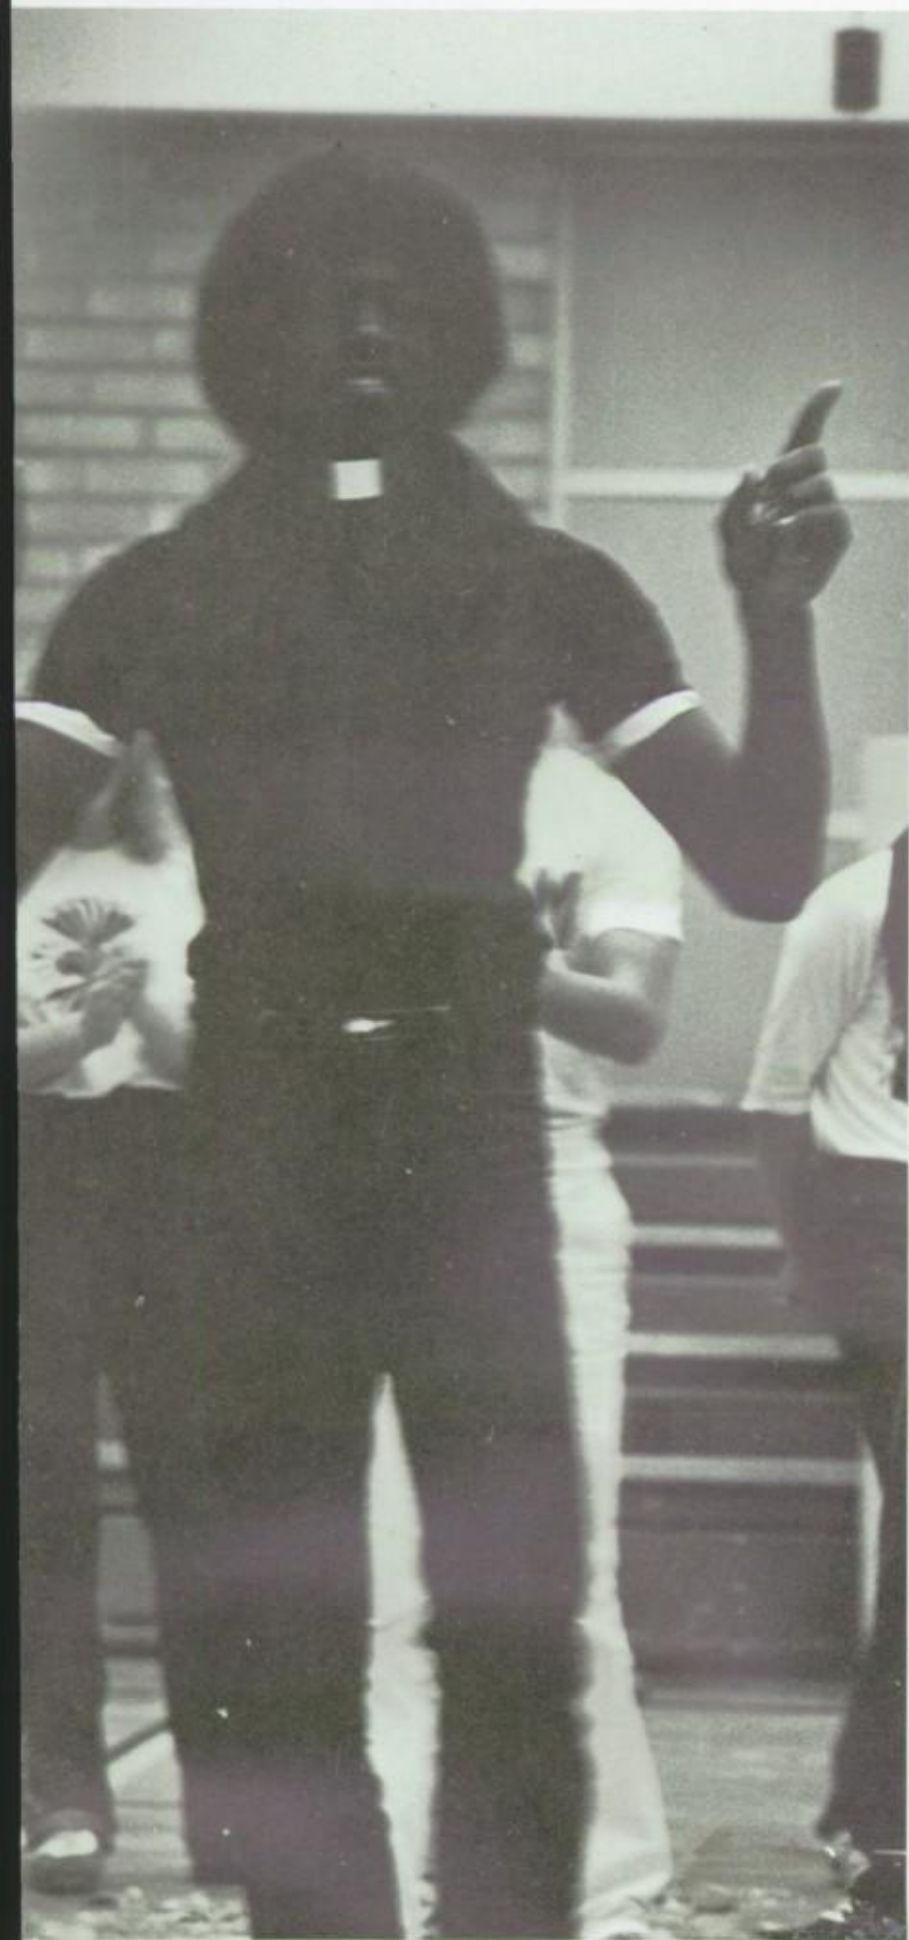

Although they didn't face problems like famine, pestilence, or even AWACS sales, Student Government had plenty to think about.

Under the dynamic leadership of President Tom Hutchnison, Student Government made possible such activities as dances, assemblies and entertainment at lunch periods as well as assorted programs to aid the needy with food and toys.

The government also aided other groups on campus through financial loans and gifts. For example, it helped the band get new uniforms.

President Hutchinson was aided by Vice-President Pete Torsiello, Treasurer Brenda Schumacher, Recording Secretary Nancy Akin, Corresponding Secretary Kara Kosinski and the various class presidents.

Maryvale Concert Choir did a number of activities this year. The first was a concert for the parents. After many hours of practice, they toured at Christmas time to five different places around the city.

To support themselves, they sold candy, stationery, t-shirts and stuffed animals. With the money, they plan to go to California for a music festival.

Flag Line flies as Kourt Kittens take vital stats

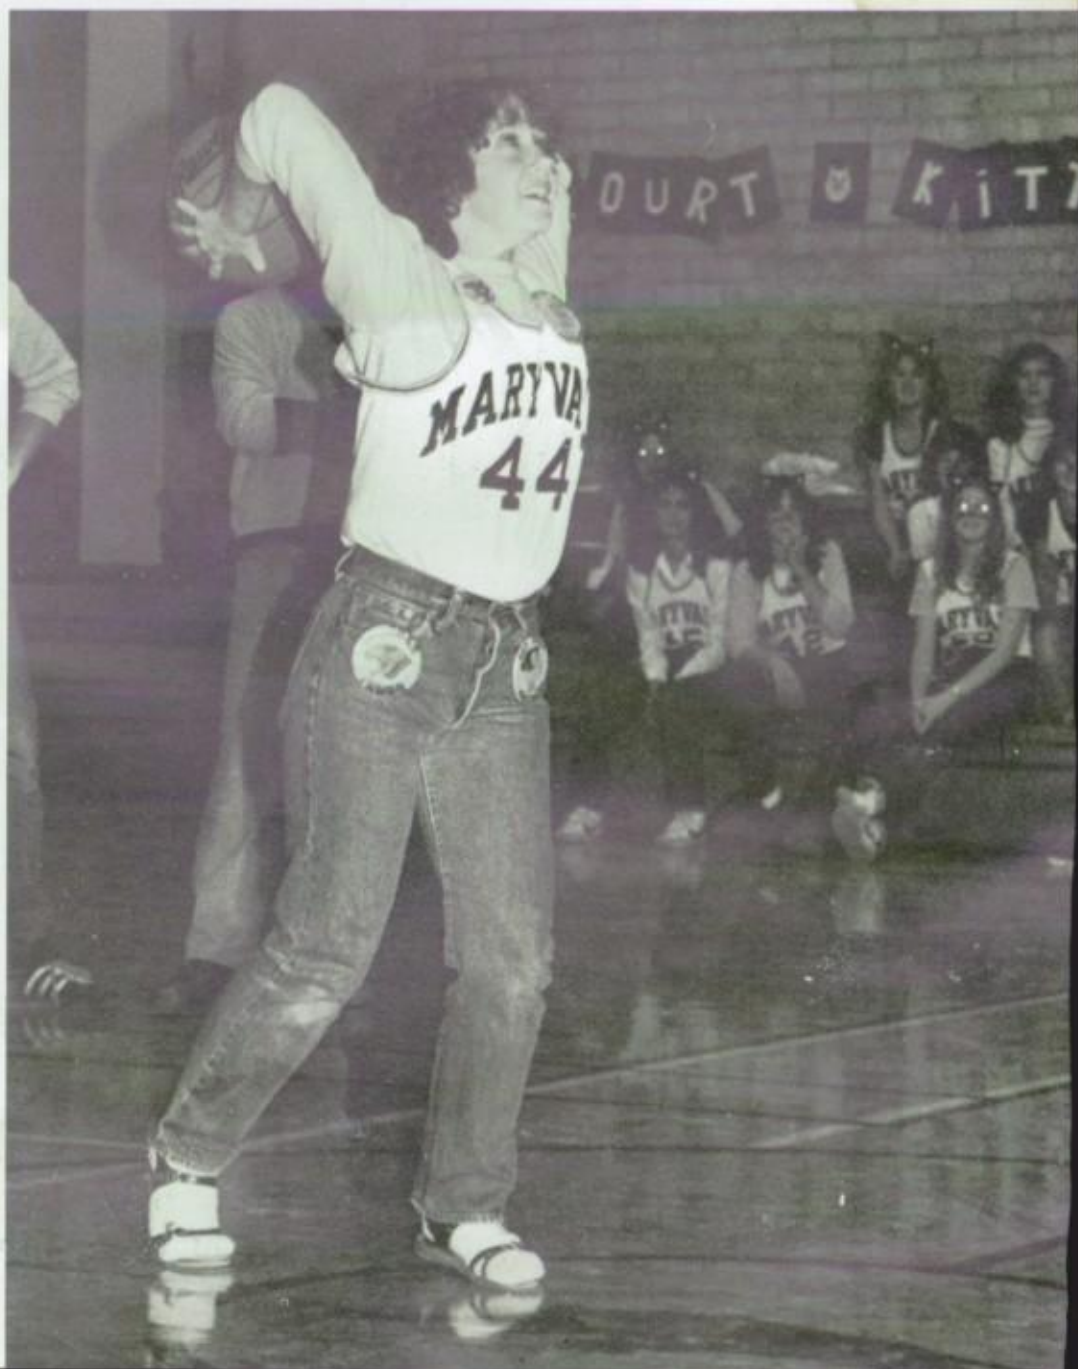

The Maryvale flag line, under the leadership of captain Patti Thill, performed with flying colors this year. A support group of the band, the flag line was present at all band marching engagements to add to the sound show. Also serving as band body warmers during cold football games, the flags boosted band morale and spirit. Woe to the poor band person who didn't think so, for it is written that at one time, you always have that flag girl march behind you. With a big pole ...

Pom, Cheer lines prove MHS high in school spirit

The Maryvale poms were engaged in various activities this year. After their many hours of practice they were still able to convince the students that Maryvale is the best. They entertained the fans at the football and basketball games and other student activities.

Panther Tracks published with phantom stories

Can you publish a newspaper with no stories? The answer is yes. Panther Tracks Editor Marlene Stephens knows this better than anyone. Everytime Marlene asked, "Does everyone have their stories?" the resulting stampede for the door was rivaled only by The Who concert.

One exception to the lazy-staff rule was Ass't. Editor Ann Brown. Weird little Ann always had a survey or two to put in.

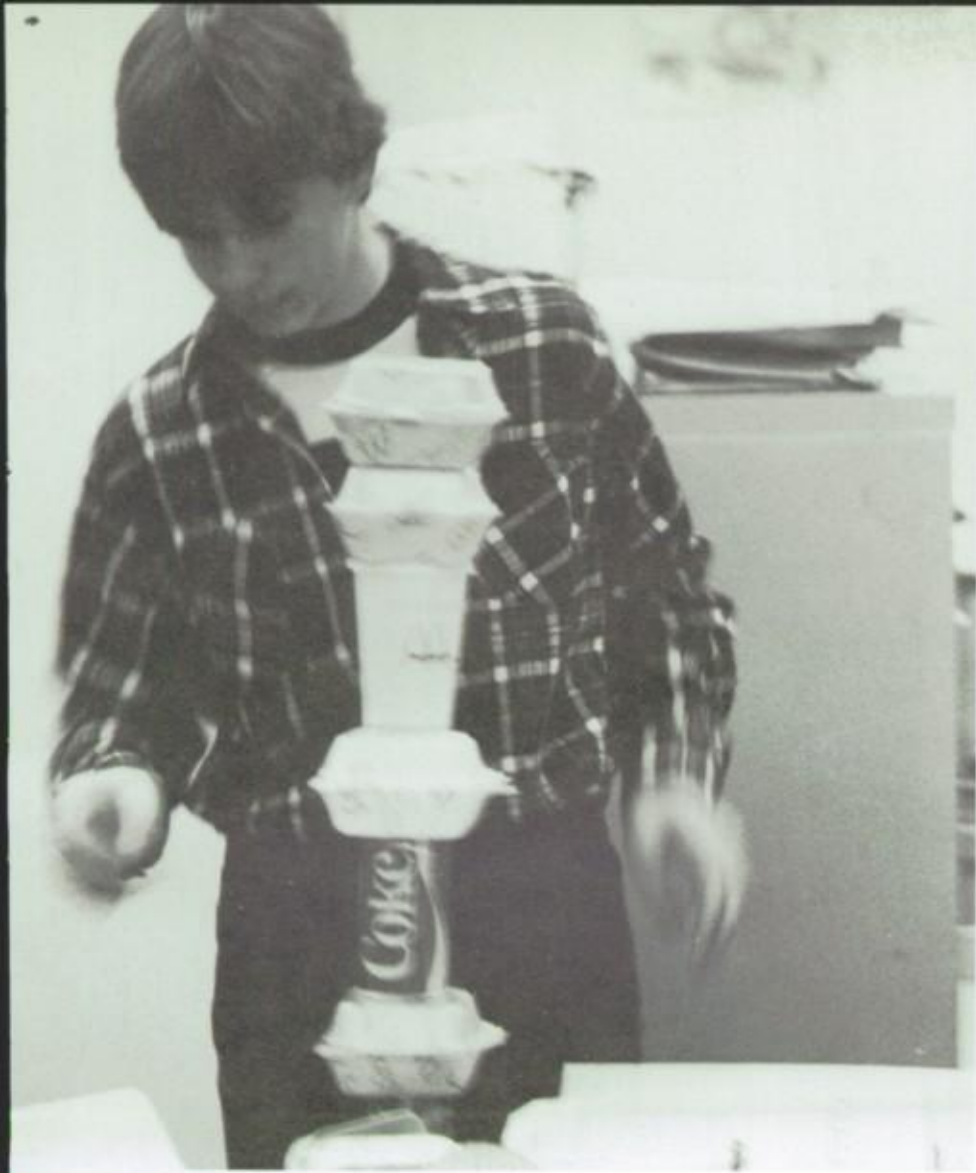

Staffer Steve Matherly tried to get a story printed for two months, but gave up and vegetated the rest of the year.

Then there was Tom Leggin. Whenever anything happened in Tom's life we got a story out of it. But that was the only time. Rochelle Anderson and Randy Leighty spent the entire year on their drug and computer stories. "We wanted quality not quantity," they said.

The other staffers simply spent the year at the McDonalds where Jamie Neese works.

Staff arrests reach epidemic proportions

"Oh, he got arrested." was a common phrase in room 408 this year as the entire yearbook staff was arrested for assorted felonies.

Editor Phyllis Lonon was arrested in March for solicitation which accounts for her prolonged absences.

Sometimes Ass't. Editor Tom Leggin was forced into many illegal acts to bail Phyl out and keep an ample supply of drugs on hand.

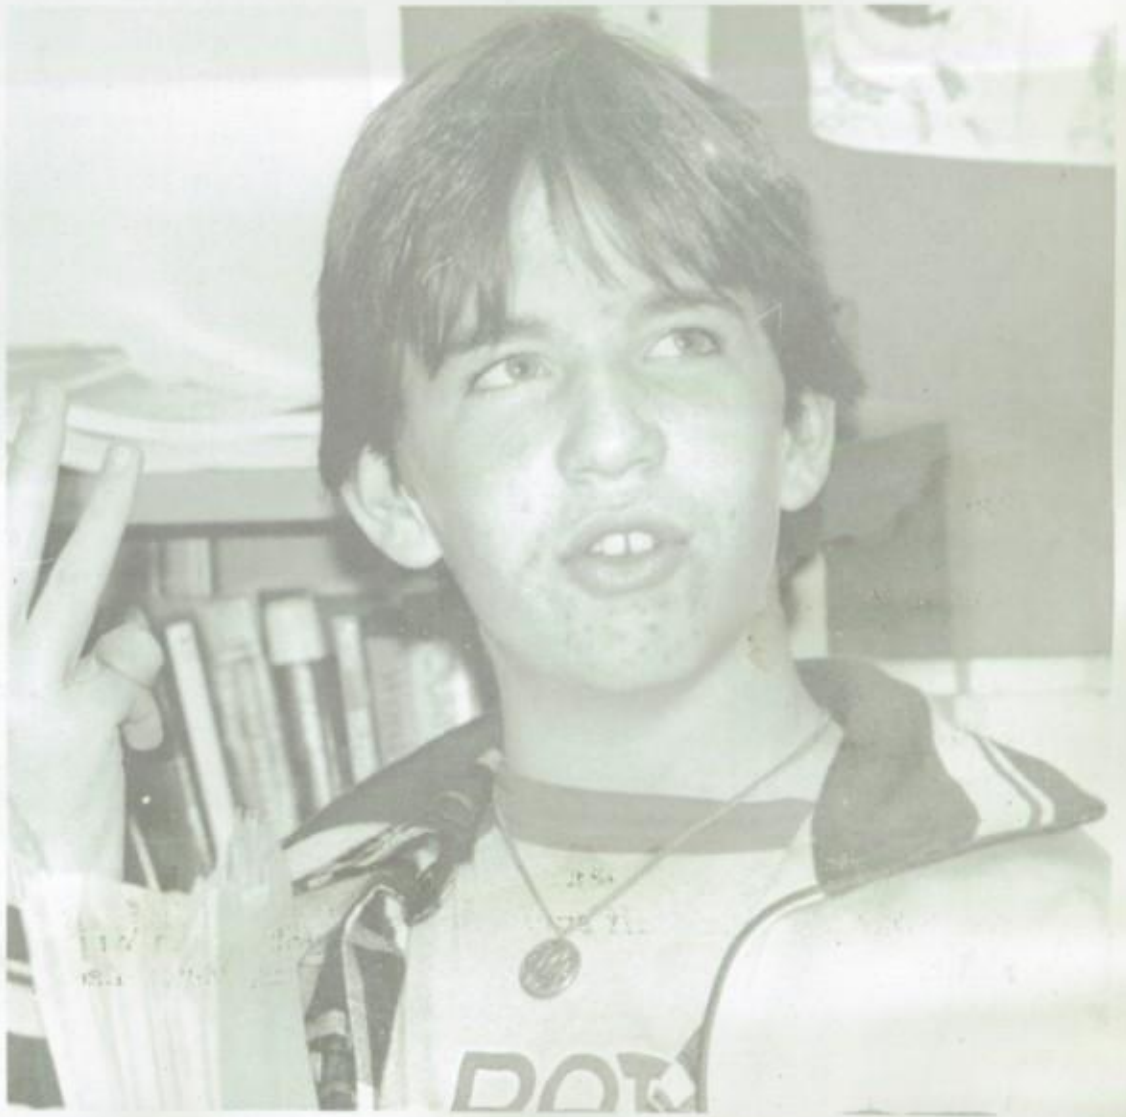

Organizations editor Randy Leighty (a convicted arsonist) was jailed for trying to set Classes Editor Lisa Nelson on fire. All Randy said was "I want to see her burn!" Mafia bosses Doug Schrock and Jamie Neese got theirs during their war over the staff smuggling rights.

There was also the staff photographers. A few charter members included Brent "s.m.u.t." Finley, Father Brian Eccles, the subordinate Brad Frost, master beautician Andy Spurlin, and a set of Sets named Genai and Teresa.

The remaining staffers were arrested when their attempt to assassinate Advisor Warden Earl Stinson was discovered by Special Agent In Charge Of Investigating Coke Smuggling, Joe Gonzales.

An exciting part of this year's entertainment was the performance dances. Getting back into shape was a real pain, but they pulled through. Starting the year by touring to other schools and showing dances to students both lunch hours. But the biggy was the major dance concert. Which turned out spectacular, as usual.

Varsity football suffers sobering season first half

Maryvale football players started the year with three hard defeats against Westwood, St. Mary's, and McClintock.

A break in our losing streak came when we played Carl Hayden. Our team was just starting to pull together and we beat Carl Hayden, 27-0.

We played Trevor Browne here at home and our team played hard. Yet, due to mistakes at crucial points we lost the game.

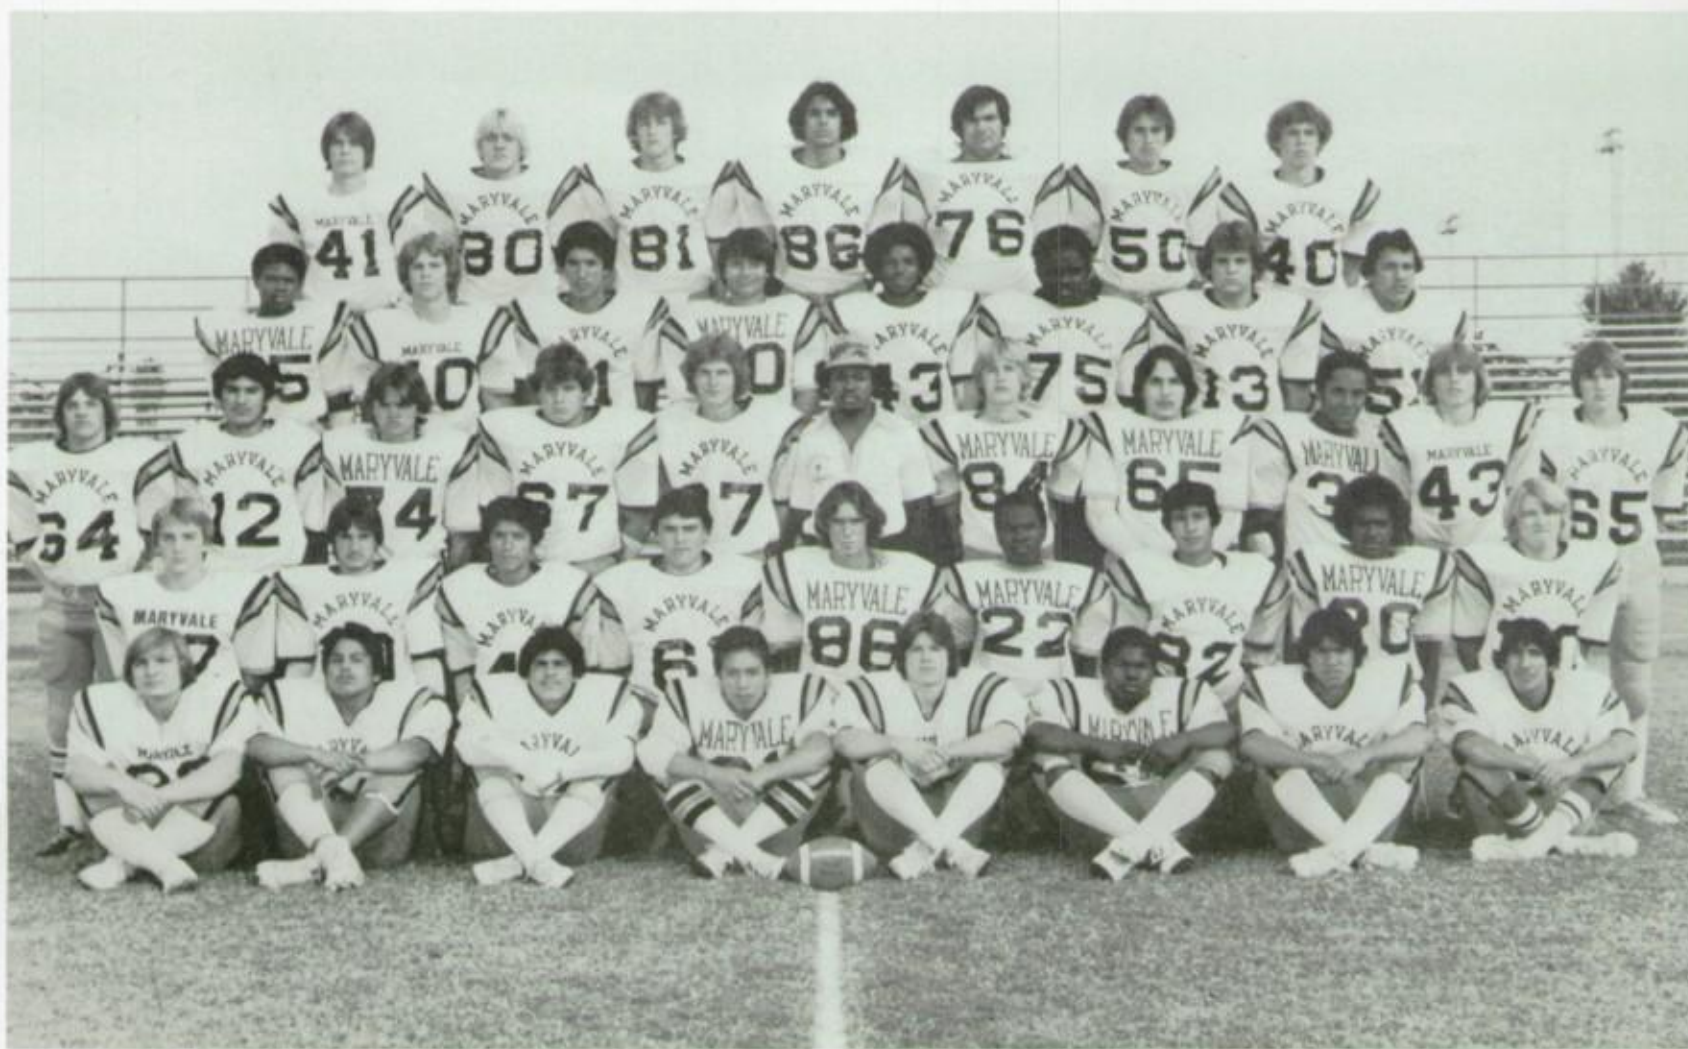

After the Trevor Browne game our team seemed to be taking a change in attitude. We played West and won. The Panthers were becoming a "team." They started to recognize their problems and worked to change them.

We were fired up for the Central game, but our defensive line wasn't holding. The Bobcats took the game, 15-7.

Maryvale came out to win against South Mountain. We dominated the whole game. The major reason for this was a change in offensive strategy formations. It took South Mountain by surprise, with a win for the Panthers. 24-0.

The rest of the Maryvale football season continued to be a winning one. Homecoming brought victory over Alhambra, and we ended our season by beating Camelback, 8-3.

Badminton team wins two games and loses eight

The varsity badminton team had a difficult season this year and came up on the short end of the win-loss stick.

Under Coach Joann Bodway, the girls played 12 games, but came out with the lower score 10 of those 12 times. The Panthers' only two wins were against Glendale and East, whom they defeated soundly.

MHS wrestlers get 8-2 season in dual matches

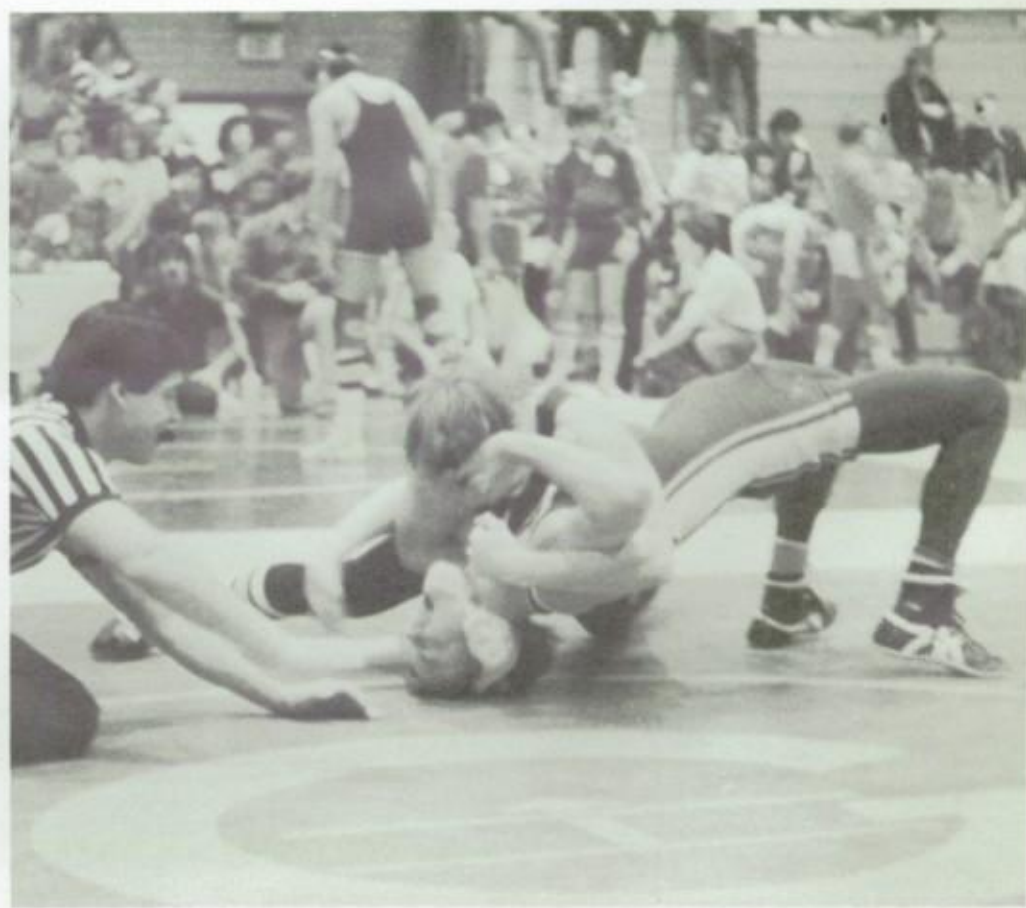

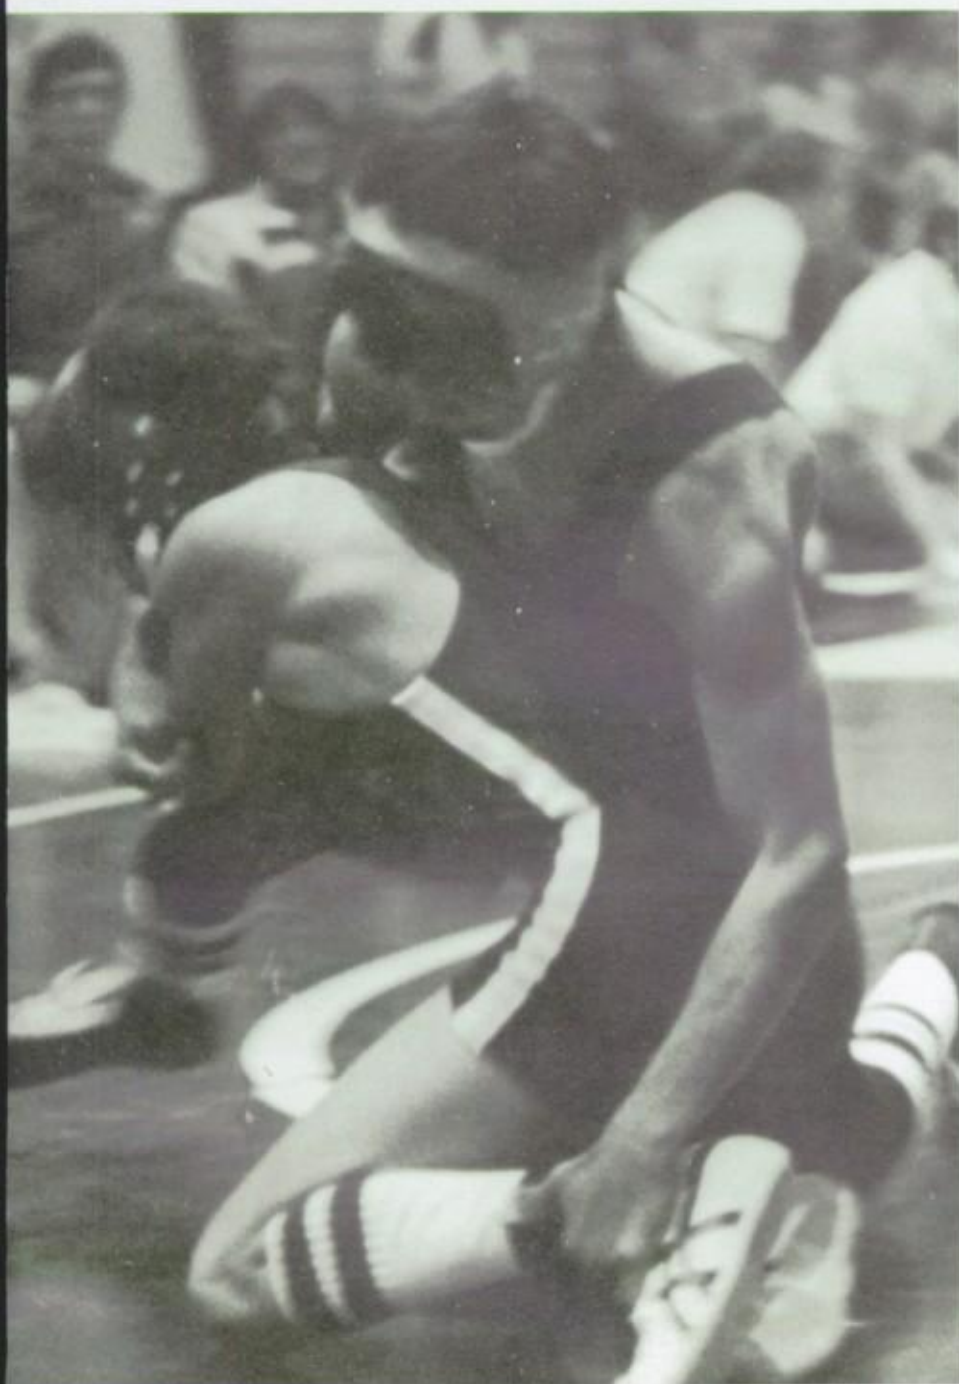

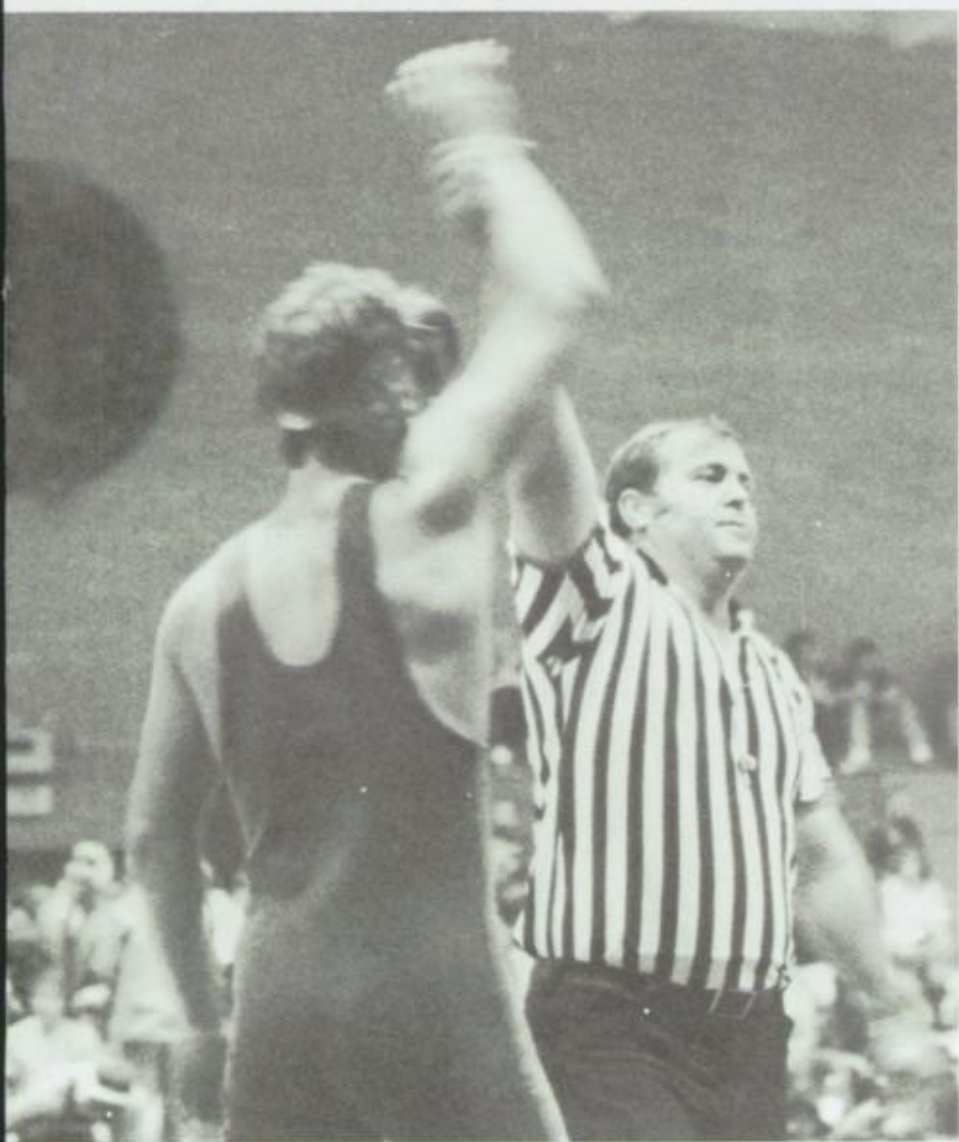

The gym is silent except for the wrestlerettes cheering on the empty mat. Life, minutes later, picks up and you can hear a roar and then the smoke of the wrestlers coming out to the mats. Then they lay down and do some pretty weird exercises. After the matches started it looked like they really did need all of them, they twisted and turned so much that they looked like a train without the wrestlerette.

Holguin's girls have best year in MHS history

The Varsity Softball team ended its season with 21 wins and 5 losses, the best record in Maryvale's history. In the Divisional Tournaments they won against East and Glendale but not against Alhambra. This made them runners-up. At the Holiday Tournaments they came out as the "Champs" winning 4 out of 4 games. With all this behind them they went to the State Tournament but lost to Westwood with a 1-3 score.

Team opens 1981 season with Scottsdale victory

The Panthers showed great balance in their opener, a 4-1 victory over the Scottsdale Beavers. The batters like Roy Sweet (far upper left) and Isidro Olivas treated the Beaver pitchers for 10 hits, while the infielders tagged out runners like third baseman Kevin Maroney (lower left) or ran them down like second baseman Darren Duffy. When pitcher Bruce Le Boeuf got into trouble, which was seldom, he could count on a friendly visit from catcher Rodney Leatherwood (below).

Assassinations top year's events

The stories of the year were the assassination attempts of President Reagan, James Brady, and John Paul II. Also the murder of Anwar Sadat. Reagan was hit by the assassin's bullet as he was leaving the Washington Hilton Hotel. Six weeks later a gunman shot Pope John Paul II as he was holding a mass in St. Peter's Square. Fanatic Muslim machine gunners slaughtered Egypt's Anwar Sadat and seven others at a military parade in Cairo. His death was most disheartening for millions. Also this year, 28 young blacks were killed in Atlanta. Police were baffled as the murders continued. People across the nation wore green ribbons in sympathy for the dead children's families. Reagan was quoted as saying, "We hope that this terrible nightmare will soon end." Now the chain of murders seem to have broken.

Another terrifying event happened one evening last July at the new Kansas City Hyatt Regency Hotel, as more than 1500 people were dancing on the skywalk when it came crashing down. The crash killed 111 people and injured another 190. Victim, Richard Howard, said, "You could watch people grab hold of the walkway. Then they flew all over."

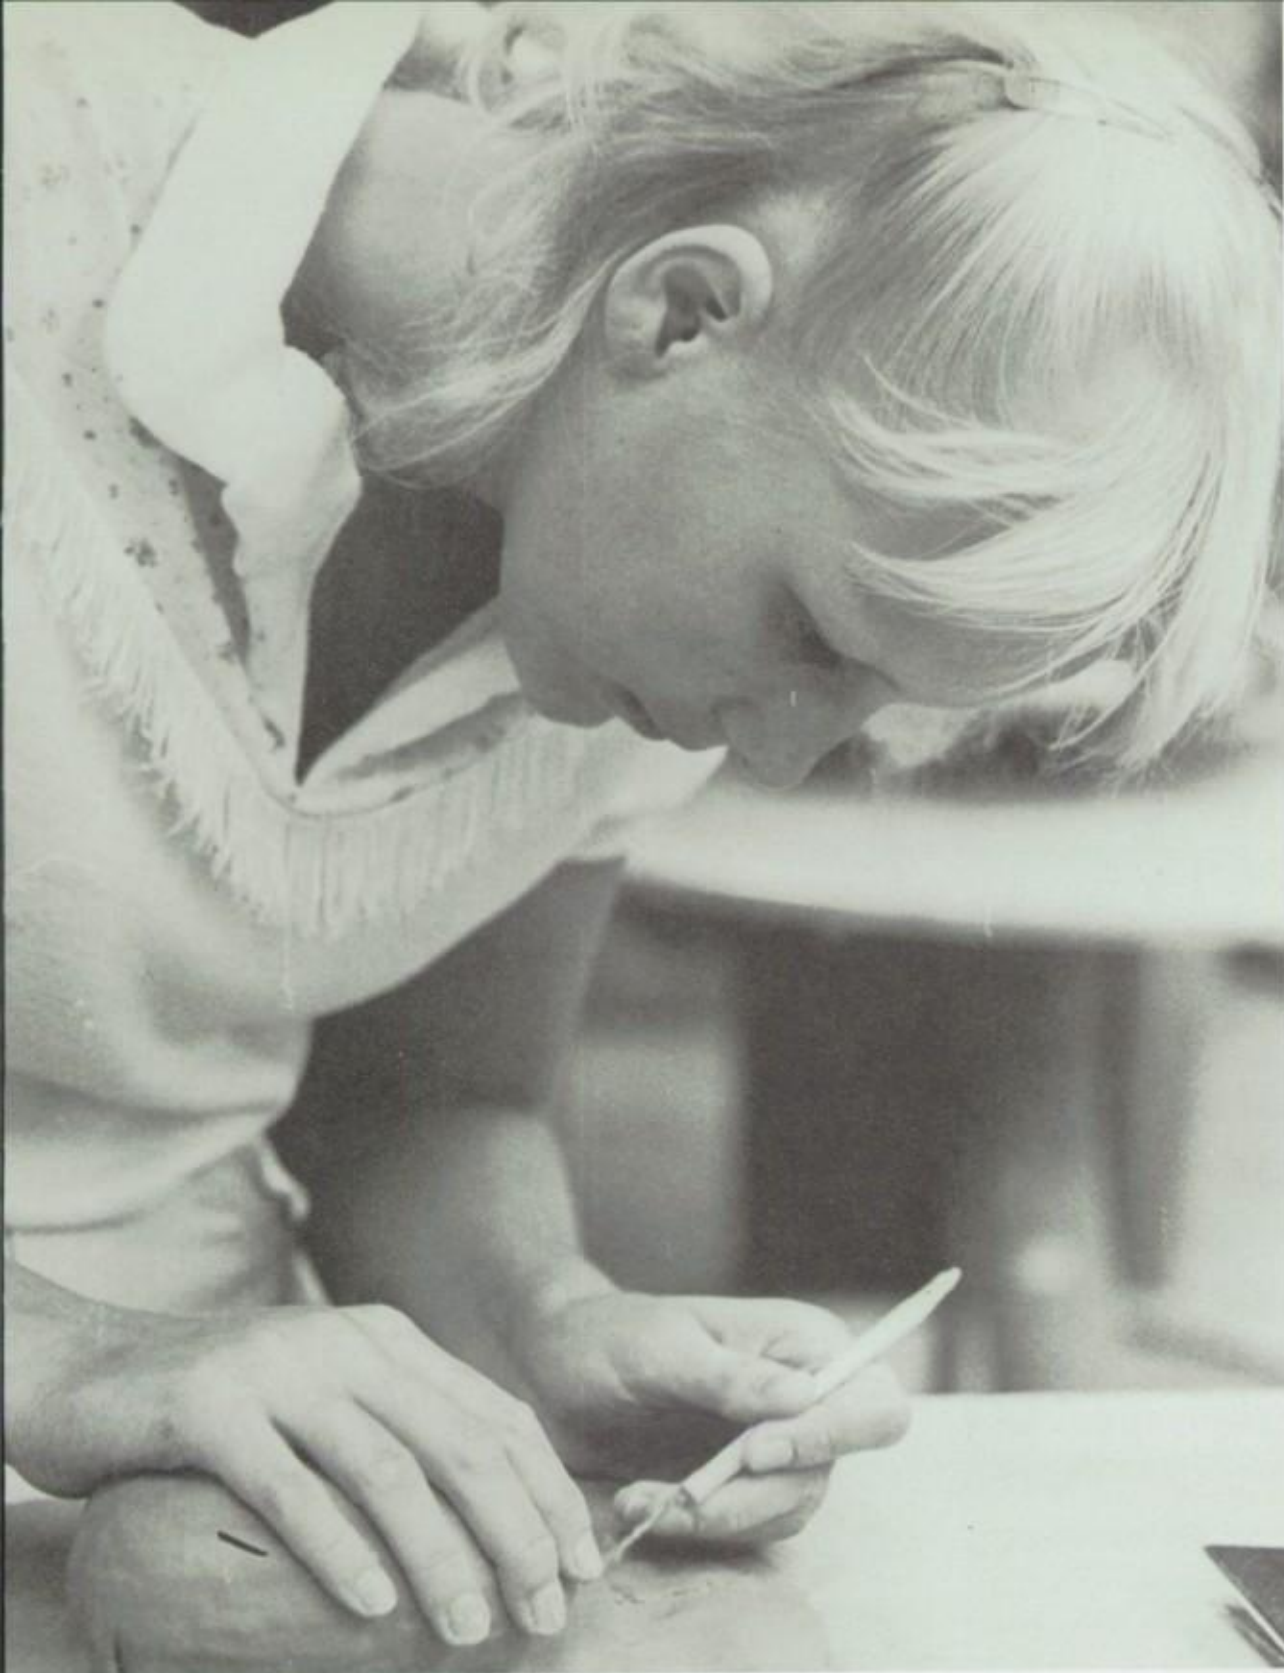

Sandra O'Connor, an appellate judge from Phoenix, was appointed to the United States Supreme Court.

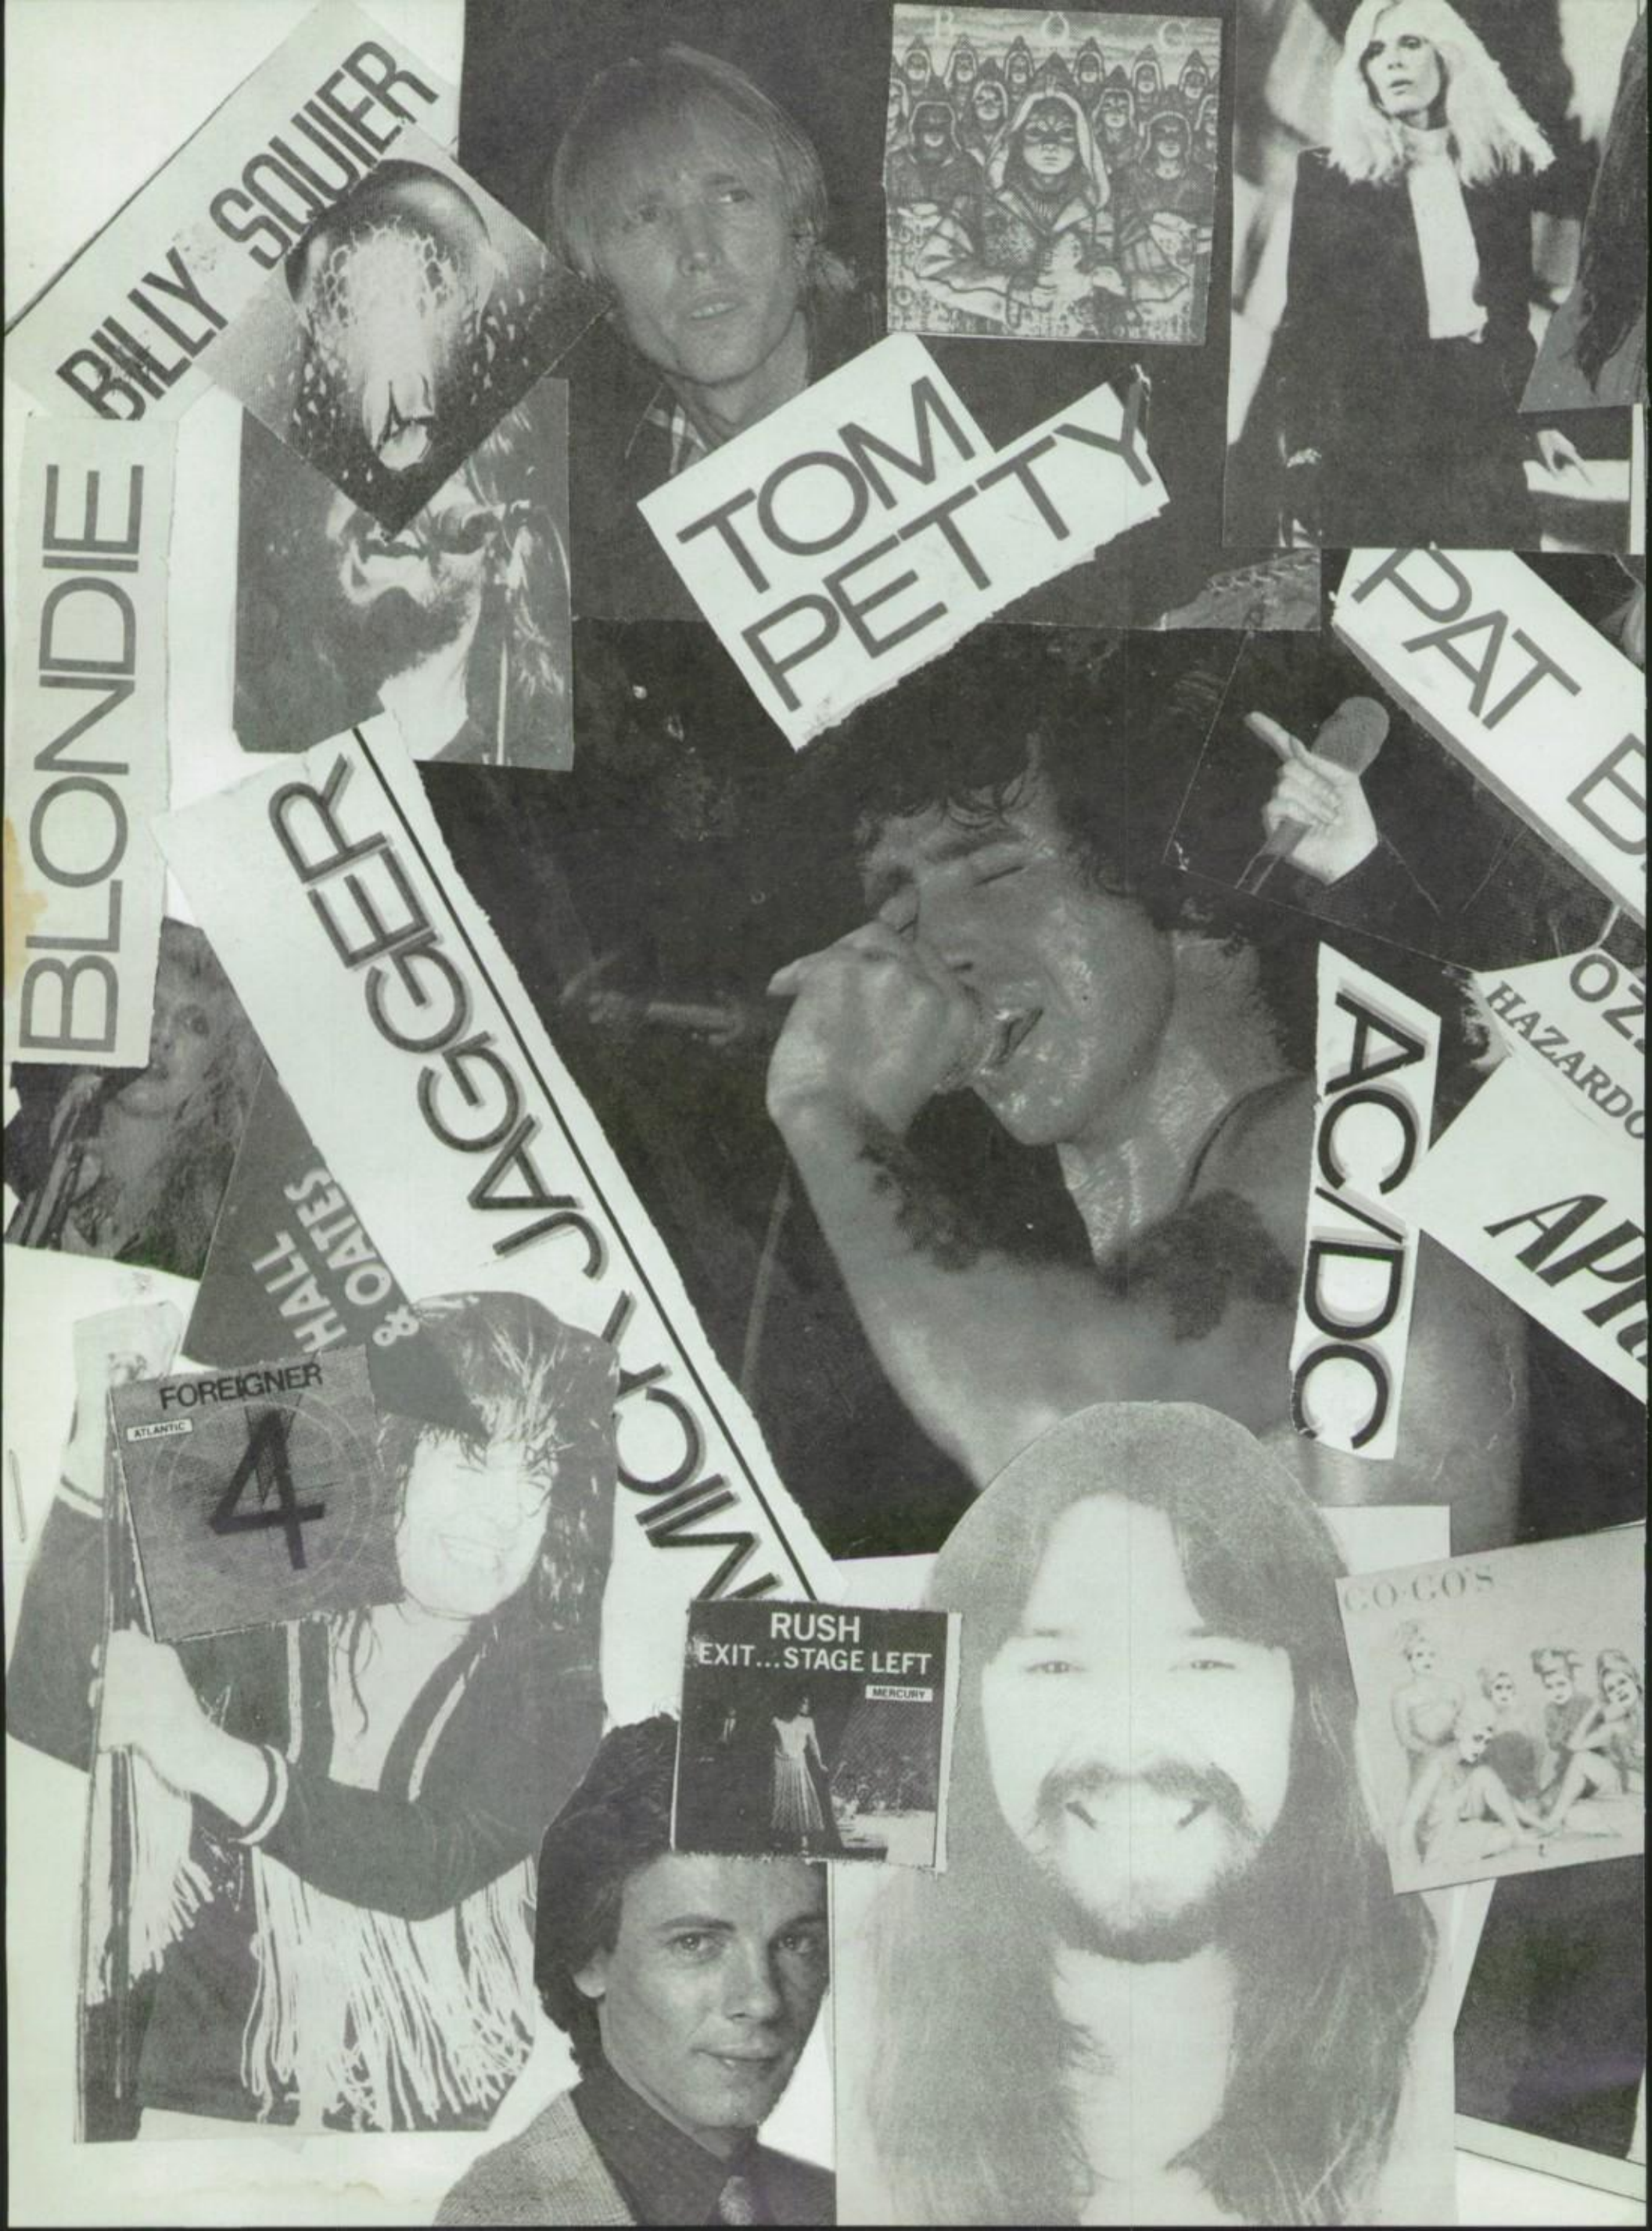

Ying Ying the panda, currently of Mexico City's Chapultepec Zoo, proudly gave birth to a cub. Some of the head zoo keepers think the baby is male, but no one has gotten in near enough to verify the sex.

The Dodgers won their first World Series in 16 years, with the help of Fernando Valenzuela, the best rookie pitcher to come along in years.

The most viewed wedding, (beside that of Luke and Laura on General Hospital), was that of Lady Diana and Prince Charles. Lady Diana's gown was viewed by millions, fashion designers were quickly reproducing the bride's attire. An estimated 750 million viewers throughout the world watched the parade and ceremony as Lady Diana became Princess of Wales.

Rock-n-roll still rules at MHS

For those about to "rock" we salute you!

Rock'n roll was the music of Maryvale High, although country-western made a slight dent in its popularity. RUSH, the Rolling Stones, Journey and AC/DC all came out with fresh new sounds and top selling albums for 81-82.

The Rolling Stones' Tattoo You sold over 3 million copies in the U.S. alone. And their three month concert tour gave them a profit gross of $50 million! The Moody Blues came back with a new sound and put their first album in years at the #1 spot.

Although they were booed off the stage when they opened for the Stones in Maryland, Journey found enough support among the fans to take their Escape album all the way to the top.

Some new talent was discovered in '81. Rick Springfield and the Go-Go's, and Fleetwood Mac's Stevie Nicks put together some excellent albums.

The Rolling Stones U.S. 1981 tour has been described as an artistic triumph. In just three months over 2 million people paid over 15 dollars a ticket to see the Stones. Spending more than $20 million on T-shirts, jerseys and bumper stickers, the Stones tried to insure that every fan would at least have the chance to pick up a souvenir. People waited outside ticket booths for hours overnight to get their tickets.

The warm-up group was scheduled to appear at 11:00 a.m. but there were several hours of delay. The second band was George Thorogood and the Destroyers. When they finally finished the sun had gone down and fans waited another two hours for the Stones.

The Rolling Stones sang old and new tunes to a very receptive audience. Ending the show with Mick Jagger riding a cherry picker and a spectacular fireworks display with a Jimmy Hendrix version of the Star Spangled Banner.

It was a great year for students with concert-mania. Pat Benetar came to Phoenix in October, followed by Journey, The Rolling Stones 75,000 people sell-out happened in December. The New Year started as Ozzy Osborne rocked the Coliseum. In February The Police, Go-Go's, Foreigner, and Greg Lake (going solo), serenaded the Valley of the Sun.

TV viewers made happy, saddened by years' events in Fantasy Land

This year, the television season came on strong with a new line-up. Each network started with three new shows each. First A.B.C. gave their part in Drama with Kings Crossing, Father Murphy, and the Fall Guy. Then N.B.C. gave their best in Comedy with Best of the West, Love Sidney, and Gimme a Break. C.B.S. came in with a variety of shows, The Two of us, and Simon & Simon as comedies, and a new Drama, Falcon Crest!

Even though the season was a hit with the new shows, it also brought sadness and grief to the many T.V. viewers and movie buffs with the unexpected deaths of Jim Davis, otherwise known as "Jock Ewing" on the hit T.V. series Dallas. Paul Lynde, one of the regulars from the nighttime game show Hollywood Squares, Steve McQueen, the star of some of his many hit movies, "Tom Horn, The Hunter, The Greatest Escape, and his early T.V. series Wanted Dead or Alive." Peter Sellers, star of his widely famous Pink Panthers movies. A recent movie was The Fiendish Plot of Dr. Fumanchu.

Of the thirteen soap operas on the air today, the most popular among teenagers is General Hospital. The special highlight of the program was "The Wedding" of Laura & Luke. It had viewers all over the country glued to their set as the ceremony proceeded. As rumors have said, Laura will be leaving the show to make her debut on nighttime television. If she does leave, she will be greatly missed.

Cubes, Portable stereos, New wave big trends at Maryvale in 1982

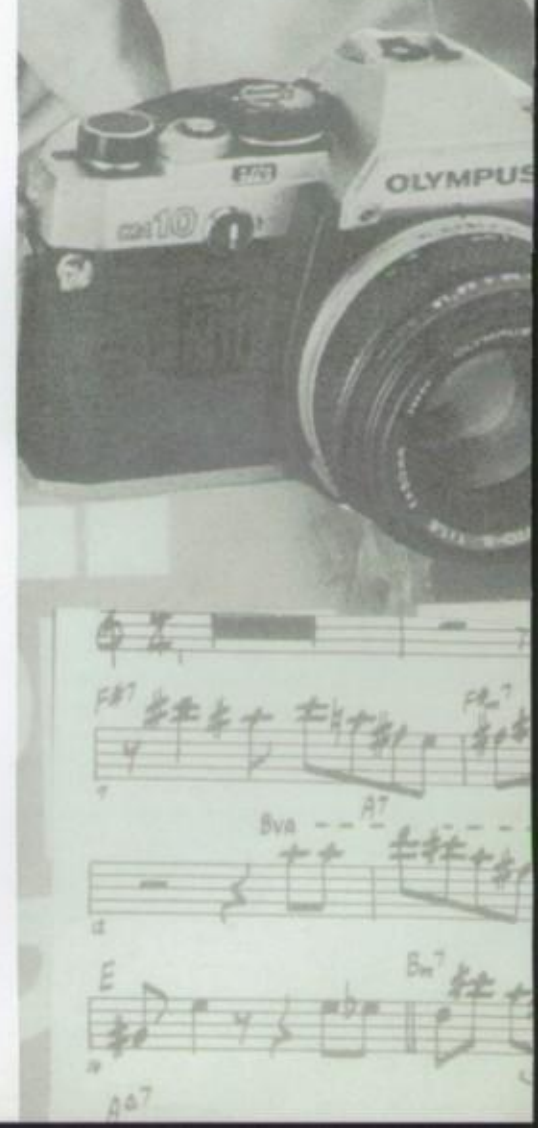

This year there were many new Fads and Fashions. Some of the most popular were the headbands, the Nancy Reagan and Princess Di hairstyles, the leaf earrings, the fitness craze, designer chocolates the first food to come auto-graphed, the Medfly, the De Lorean, Dodger fan teeshirts, the Rubik's Cube, short shirred boots, Dump Watt buttons, the dress for success, low-heeled pumps, the hospital scrub suit, 3-d glasses, the Pac Man video game, Superman II and The Raiders of the Lost Ark movies, Kamali Sweats with miniskirts, Endless Love and Hi Infidelity albums.

On the news stands some of the famous books were John Irvings, The Hotel New Hampshire, Richard Simmons', Never Say Diet Book, and The White Hotel by D. M. Thomas. Some of the famous faces this year on the covers of magazines were Brooke Shields, Ronald Reagan, Jacklyn Smith and many others.

Some of the newest candies and gums on the market this year were Chu-Bops, mini chewable records in collectible album covers, Big League chew, a shredded bubble gum, and Ronald Reagans famous jelly beans.

And that's the way it was in 1982!

Daily routines cause prayerful car passengers

Every morning over three thousand cast members would arrive on the set to start a new day.

When lunch time rolled around the immediate area offered a limited menu for off-the-set lunchers. McDonalds, Jack in the Box, Taco Bell and Arby's in the fast food lane, and a new Peter Piper Pizza added to the menu. The cafeteria was a last hope to many.

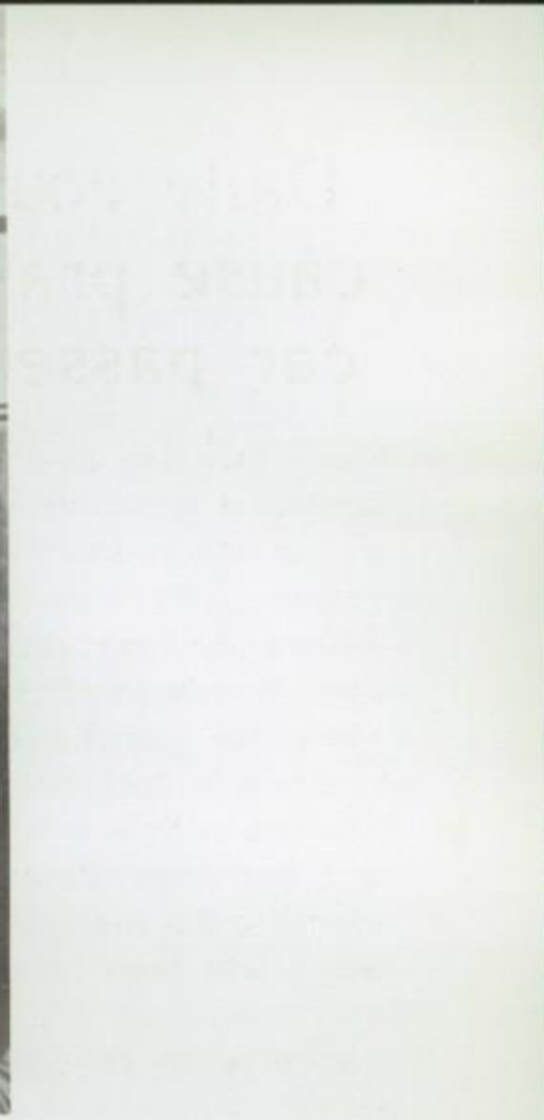

During lunch though, there was always the ever popular lunch time activity. Sit-down volleyball and ameba were favorites among that crowd.

But the day went on and after lunch it was back to class. 3 or 4 hours later it was time to go home. Within 3 minutes after the bell rang, a line would start forming at the parking lot exits with cars trying to get on to 59th avenue. The most common way of doing this was close-your-eyes-and-floor-it, while your passengers set in the back and prayed.

Maryvale's 19th Celebrated with "Biggest Cake"

Maryvale High students are the only students in the PUHSS to celebrate their school's birthday, February 4. This year Maryvale turned 19 years old. The Student Government went all out. They hired a DJ who played every tune that the students wanted to hear. Plus, the best part about the birthday party was the cake. The students, clubs and Student Government brought out their homemade appeal and made 111 cakes total to make one of the biggest birthday cakes around.

Raiders, Superman II, Werewolf Favorites of Panther movie-goers

1981 treated us to a revived, restored, and remixed menagerie of movie themes. Audiences were reintroduced to the pulp hero of the thirties and forties, as the artistry of "Raiders of the Lost Ark" and Superman II flooded the screen.

Enteies in science fiction for the year were highlighted by John Carpenter's "Escape from New York", the animated "Heavy Metal", and the spacy High Noon, "Outland."

We didn't have much to laugh at this past year. Bleak comedies such as the "Cannonball Run", "Neighbors," and "The Incredible Shrinking Woman" chased movie goers away. Shining through the dull torments, however, was "Arthur", a witty and surprisingly funny comedy.

Scaring us this year were the intense horrors of "Prom Night", "Halloween II", and "An American Werewolf in London."

We were treated to an excellent tour of suspenseful and dramatic movies, beginning with Brian DePalma's "Blow Out." A military academy served as the premise of revolution in "Taps", and the high school bullies were brought to their knees in "My Bodyguard."

One fantasy smash was "Time Bandits," a smartly crafted movie that stole everyones heart.

This passing year at the movies filled our lives with laughter, excitement, and insight. However the most important fact about the films of 1981 were that they made us feel young at heart in this adult world.

Cranky computer adds to Miller's Shumate's cares

If running a high school were not tough enough job, add a cranky computer to change schedules and record attendance and the principal's position becomes darn near impossible.

Ask George Miller, principal of Maryvale, about the opening days of school and he would probably say that those days were as close to the end of public education here as he has ever seen.

Even with all the problems with the computer school, as far as a student could tell breezed along as if nothing were wrong. That was the testimony as far as Miller's administrative ability was concerned.

After the closing of North High School last spring, Dr. Howard Shumate joined the Maryvale administration just in time to be jokingly charged with the computer programs. Some even suggested that he was trying to accomplish at Maryvale what he did at North: close it.

As the year went on, however, Shumate worked hard to improve attendance at Maryvale. He and Miller even volunteered Maryvale for a tough new attendance policy, but the school board tabled the whole idea.

Assistant principals work to keep campus harmony

Assistant principals Martin Ulloa and Dorann Thoreen worked hard to keep students in school and at the same time keep them out of trouble. To do so proved to be a full time job.

In addition to their peacekeeping duties, each had responsibilities that kept their jobs from being completely maddening. Ulloa also served as athletic director for Maryvale sports while Thoreen worked with student government, clubs and other activities.

Art Department adds photography to class choices

Although declining enrollment caused many cutbacks in programs, the Art Department added a new class: photography. Taught by Department Chairman Elizabeth Meineke, the class learned the fundamentals of the craft. A new darkroom with enlargers and other equipment from North High School was created for the photography class.

The department also added a new member to the faculty. She was Catherine Cimellaro who taught art and crafts classes.

The major change in the Business Department the transfer of Barbara Shoaf, long-time Distributive Education coordinator, to Alhambra at the end of first semester. She was replaced by Bob Jordani who returned to teaching after several years as a restaurateur.

In addition, Harriet Frires Business Law class attended a real trial during Christmas recess as well as held a mock trial where newspaper students acted as jurors.

Minimum writing skills determine passing grades

A stricter board policy-concerning minimal writing skills caused quite a bit of trouble for the English Department and its Chairman, Dorothy Thomas. Instead of giving students all their high school years to complete the skill and tasks, the board decreed that in order to pass, a freshman student had to pass 12 of the 20 skills and sophomores all 20 in order to pass their respective classes.

Johanna Haver split time between Maryvale and Trevor Browne in order to bring German teaching to the Foreign Language department while George Emmons taught the advanced Spanish classes along with his regular group.

Three new teachers joined the Math Department: Elizabeth Kapash, who taught geometry and consumer math; Kathy Radina, who taught general math; and Richard Milnes who taught algebra and general math.

Industrial Arts lost a teacher this year when Mel Crain moved to Trevor Browne. Larry Yule had to teach a general shop and a drafting class as well as coordinate ICE.

Pemberton takes over band baton as Clary leaves

The Band got its fifth director in four years as Janice Pemberton took over the baton this year. She replaced Richard Clary who moved to Marcos De Niza High School. With the discontinuation of Orchestra, Albert Satina taught two guitar classes and kept three study halls.

The physical education department added an Outdoorsmanship Class to its offering. Danny Wales took the class on several field trips as well as taught them the basics of outdoor life. Department CO-Chairman Virginia Rote taught girls how to feel good about themselves in a self-improvement class.

Iris Cashdan joined the reading faculty this year. Margaret Owen taught special students who have no English skills at all. They were largely Oriental and Spanish-speaking students who could neither speak nor read English.

Goodwin returns to MHS faculty from leave year

The Science Department, under the direction of chairman Tom Messner, welcomed Richard Hoffman from Carl Hayden as a biology and general science teacher. Barbara Stephens moved to a full-time position in chemistry replacing Ross Watson who went into industry. Ralph Neighbors, P.E. Teacher also moved in to teach two classes of general science.

After a year's leave of absence, Don Goodwin returned to the social studies department to teach American and Arizona Government. Albert Ritter retired effective at semester after triple by-pass surgery during the summer. Brian Black replaced Mr. Ritter during the fall semester, but was assigned part-time to Phoenix Union during the second semester.

The 'can do' Battalion of ROTC at Maryvale received the honors it earned in last year's Federal Inspection. Sergeant Ronald Ratliff joined the unit at semester to help the Corps continue its domination of awards in the Annual Federal Inspection.

Wendt, Lamberto join ESP faculty as new teachers

The Exceptional Student Program had its most stable year as most of the teachers returned. Yvonne Allegretti returned after a year's absence. Laura Lamberto and Debra Wendt were the only new teachers this year. The department, Chaired by Joyce Werner, added curriculum in the form of basic courses in Science, English, Social Studies and other disciplines.

Bill Morris returned to the Instructional Materials Center after a year's leave of absence during which time he was a Librarian at Glenda Community College. The IMC, includes not only the Library but the Audio-Visual Department and the most used machine in the school: the Xerox.

When Beverly Bostrom moved back in to the Physical Education Department, Glen Turner took over her chores as monitor of opportunity hall, where students with discipline problems were allowed to work off their time without being suspended.

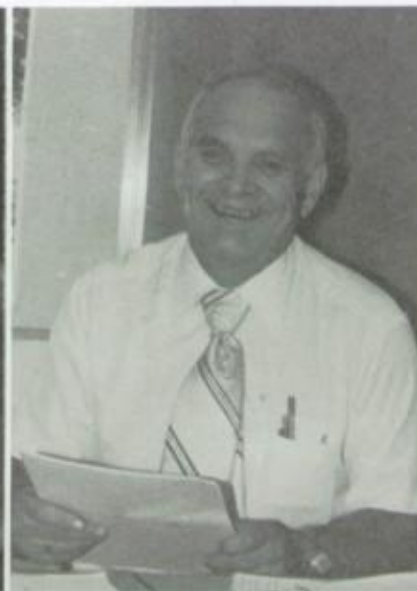

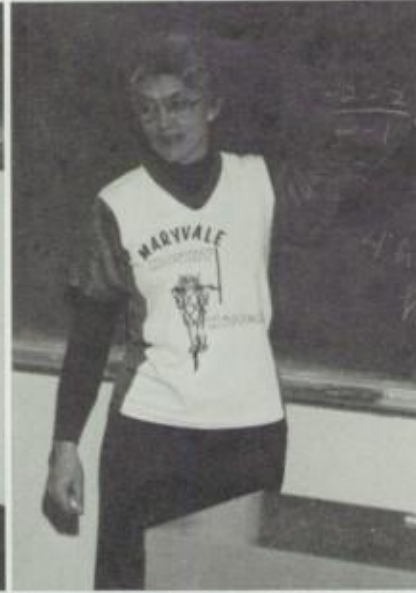

Schedule changes, computer cause counselor woes

Counselors were put to the test at the beginning of the year as the new computer fouled up left and right in the world of schedule changes. Many students waited as long as four weeks for the changes to go through. Vae Geiler returned to the department after two years as an assistant principal.

The new computer created many of the problems faced by the faculty this year. Not only were the schedule changes slow but the recording of absences got completely out of hand during the first weeks of school. The absences themselves were the second major problem. Students ditched in record numbers during the school year.

Despite such problems as wayward computer, wayward students declining enrollment, dropouts, the faculty at Maryvale coped. Some consolation was found by many in the fact that as bad as things seemed at Maryvale, other schools in the district and the country had more problems than Maryvale. One philosophical teacher said, "Someday, we may think of these as the good old days."

Security keeps dragons from invading Maryvale

Once upon a time there were six security guards: (top) Joe Gonzalez, Assistant chief Lee Miller, Chief Ed Jones, Vicki VanAnsdale, Bunny Bishop and Ivan Meier. They were commissioned to keep peace on the Maryvale campus and protect its inhabitants from invading dragons.

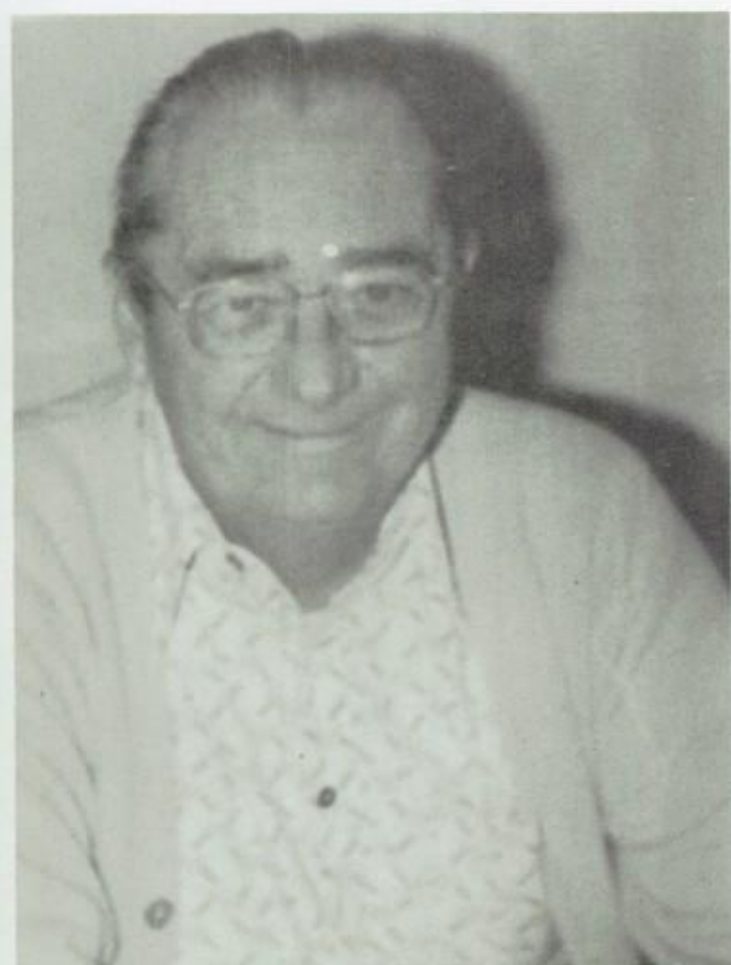

They became so proficient at keeping dragons away the king assigned them new duties such as collecting taxes from the Maryvale inhabitants who were caught roaming the campus with Cokes and music makers and without passes.

As a result of these new duties, the assistant kings were kept quite busy talking to such inhabitants as Lord Chamberlains and Keepers of His Majesty's Press.

Many of the guards found these duties onerous, but two (bottom) donned their tuxedos and lived happily ever after.

Sharon,

Hi, I'm gonna finally get a chance to sign your yearbook. We never had the time in 2nd hour, so I will sign it now. I wasn't real sure whether or not your dad would let you live with me this summer, but he did. And I'm glad you're such a sweet and neat person. You seem to be what a "real friend" is, and I would really like to have a good friend. Our friendship will really be put to the challenge this summer, but I know we will both end up winning in the long run (when you move back home). I hope we are always friends. I just can't wait till Troy comes home. I know you're gonna just love him. He's so neat and "gorgeous." Maybe, if we ever get married you can be my "Maid of Honor." I wish you luck with Joe. He's a special one Sharon. I hope everything always works the way you want it to. God knows you deserve it.

Love ya, Your friend Leisa Benson

Let's go to the PUB! Most people would think of Graham Central Station or Mr. Lucky's. But for me it was room 408 here at Maryvale.

I started this year as a newcomer but thanks to the friends I've made and the help they've given me I don't feel like a newcomer anymore. It's a little strange to think it's time for me to leave already.

All year long the staff and I kept screaming for ORGANIZATION. Well it didn't work. So we resorted to Plan B... Mass chaos and productivity(?) at deadlines with nothing getting done in between. Somehow we managed to put the year together in this book, but we had outside help.

I give special thanks to Patti Leggin who gave most of her free hours and week-ends writing copy during first semester. Without your dedication we still wouldn't be done. Randy, you give orders better than Hitler himself. To you I say "Heil" You've done a great job this year.

Lisa and Marlene thanks for being there. You two gave me a lot of support. (Not to mention keeping me away from staffers I wanted to strangle). Brent, Brian, and Teresa you've managed to do some miracles at deadlines. (Do you think photographers and staffers will ever get along?) I appreciate all the long hours, skipped dates, and meals you've given up to be here. (Speaking of meals, I give thanks to the snack bar and McDonald's for sustaining us through the year).

Tom there have been times we've argued on how to do this and that, and we've been close to killing each other at times. Thanks for doing all the lay-outs, writing all the copy, and coming up with a headline out of nowhere... then doing it all over again.

This is the end and my part is finished. Next year there will be a new editor, a new student body, and a new Maryvale Story, but this year will always be ours.

So one of my favorites is! Sharon, we're really got to be close friends even though we didn't hang around because of our past experiences with our Romeo's.
You really are a crazy kid with a beautiful sense of humor and I pray you never lose it or change for someone or whatever. You know, I really hope that in the near future when we see each other, we'd better be hanging on to someone because God knows we deserve a lot more than we've had! I wish all the success & happiness for you and all the success & happiness and you'd better take
